MAKES 207.5 MILES PER HOUR IN RUN ON FLORIDA BEACH

Philadelphia Speed King Brings Title Back to the United States in Daring Feat at Daytona.

FRANK LOCKHART WILL TRY TODAY

Giant Simplex Attains Speed of 213.90 Miles an Hour and Is Picked Up by High Wind.

Daytona Beach, Fla., April 22.—(AP) Flashing twice across the ocean speedway here today with the 36 cylinders of his Triplex Special thundering their challenge, Ray Keech, 27-year-old Philadelphia racing pilot, established a new world's record for the mile straightaway with an average speed of 207.5280 miles per hour.

Thousands lined the beach to cheer as the huge machine hurtled over the course carrying the Philadelphia pilot to victory after his previous efforts to bring the record back to the United States had been thwarted by accident and unfavorable weather conditions.

Keech exceeded by six-tenths of a mile the record established by Captain Malcolm Campbell, British pilot, who in February of the same year had packed sand averaged 206.95 miles per hour in his Napier bluebird special.

Travels 213.9 M. P. H. "Boy howdy!" Keech yelled as he climbed down from his mount, a joyful smile lighting his face. "I never did so much running in my life."

Literally burning up the sands with the giant creation, owned by J. M. White, Philadelphia manufacturer and sportsman, Keech attained a high speed of 213.90374 miles an hour in his first official run north with the wind. His time for the measured mile was 16.88 seconds.

On his return trip, made against a 35-mile an hour wind, he negotiated the mile in 17.56 seconds for a speed of 201.50744 miles an hour. His average elapsed time was 17.345 seconds. Keech set the new record after he had made two previous assaults against the Englishman's mark today, but the timing device failed to record his time on one of the trials, and he was compelled to make two more attempts.

Time Fails to Work. On his first appearance on the beach, Keech negotiated the mile south against the wind in 17.65 seconds for a speed of 203.06000 miles an hour. During his return trip north with the wind, which is required by the American Automobile association, the timing device did not register his entry into the mile stretch, so that his speed was not known.

The American Automobile association rules stipulate that both runs must be made within a 30-minute period, and as that time expired shortly after Keech's first run, the timing device did not register his entry into the mile stretch, so that his speed was not known.

White appeared greatly provoked because the time on the second run had not been recorded, and declared that Keech would make only the one run over again, and then lodge a protest with the officials claiming the

FRANCE UPHOLDS POINCARE POLICY IN NATIONAL POLL

Paris, April 22.—(AP)—The "plebiscite for Raymond Poincare," as today's voting was described in popular parlance, resulted in an assured triumph for the union government in the view of adherents of the administration. They based this upon a study of returns from 133 of the 612 constituencies which had been received up to midnight.

Impartial observers were inclined to agree as to the general result but they said that the extent of the victory could be known only after the balloting of next Sunday when all districts which failed to give any one candidate a clear majority are to vote again. A plurality will elect on the second ballot.

Only half of the 133 districts reporting tonight gave the necessary majority to elect. Of the 66 deputies chosen nearly three-fourths were adherents of Poincare and his policies. The list included six members of the cabinet.

The three principal opposition leaders, Edvard Daladier, radical; Leon Blum, socialist, and Marcel Cachin, communist, failed to poll clear majorities.

PRIMARY IN OHIO IS SUPREME TEST FOR REPUBLICANS

Hoover's Star Will Take on Brighter Gleam or Go Behind Fog if He Is Beaten.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER, United News Staff Correspondent.

Washington, April 22.—Ohio voters, with their presidential primary Tuesday, hold the fate of Secretary of Commerce Hoover's candidacy in their hands to a considerable degree. To a lesser degree the Tuesday primary in Massachusetts will be significant, although President Coolidge has somewhat cleared the situation with his letter to the state republican chairman requesting that the campaign to write his name on the preference ballot be dropped. Hoover is expected to get a majority of that delegation.

Pennsylvania holds its presidential primary on the same day but the republican leaders are certain of a slate which will be largely submissive to the direction of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon. He has not indicated his intentions, although some of his friends have said there is much Hoover sentiment in the state. Most observers feel that Mellon will wait, and if Hoover seems likely to be nominated, throw Pennsylvania to him, and if not, then support the most promising alternative.

Smith Expects Victory. Democrats hold their primaries in the same states Tuesday, but as it is generally conceded that Al Smith will be nominated, their contests have become more perfunctory. In Ohio a delegation pledged to former Senator Pomeroy will be chosen, but with the understanding that it will go to Smith if needed. Massachusetts is expected to go solidly pro-Smith. In Pennsylvania anti-Smith drags led by Vance McCormick, Harrisburg publisher, are putting up a fight which will cut into the Smith strength materially. Smith's managers expect 60 out of the 78 delegates.

As most unentangled politicians view the republican situation, Hoover has reached a fork in the road, one leading toward the nomination over a fairly smooth route, and the other a rough descent.

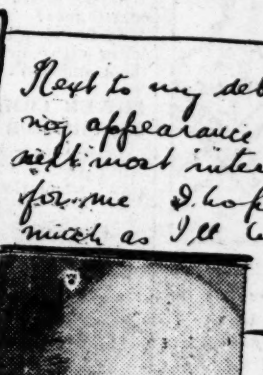

The campaign against Hoover in Decatur, Ga., April 22.—(Special). Julius A. McCurdy, sheriff of DeKalb county for the last fifteen years and one of the most prominent and respected citizens of the county, died early Sunday at the Wesley Memorial hospital following an operation for acute appendicitis.

Stars Send Greetings to Old and New Atlanta Friends

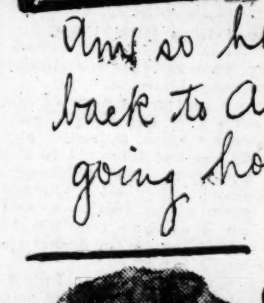

Am proud as a peacock to be in the cast of the opening night in Atlanta. Hope I feel as much at home there as you already do. I feel I am not among to a public but among for my folks at home. Rosa Ponselle

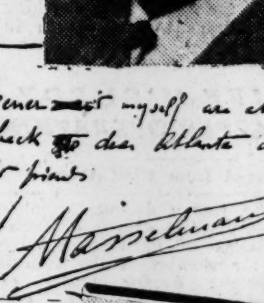

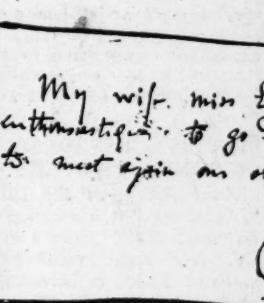

Next to my debut at Metropolitan my appearance at Atlanta is the most interesting experience for me. I hope you'll like me as much as I like you. Giuseppe Bambergh

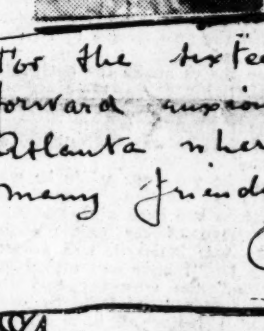

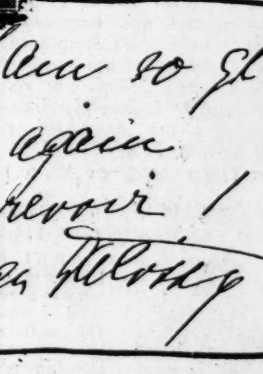

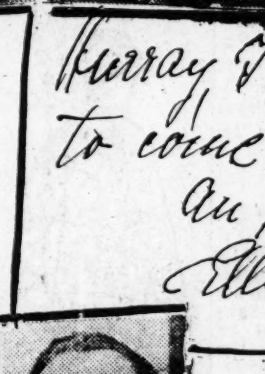

My wife, Miss Gensler, and myself are absolutely enthusiastic to go back to the Atlanta and to meet again our old friends. Beniamino Gigli

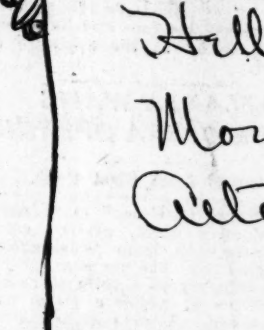

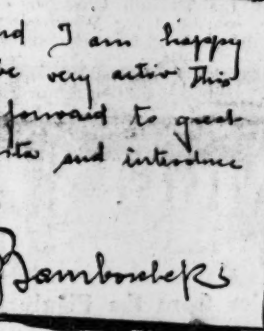

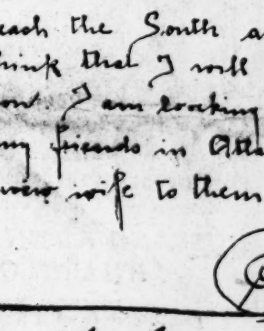

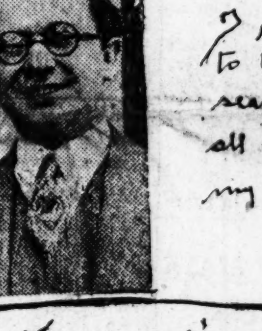

Am so happy to be coming back to Atlanta. Seems like going home. Marion Talley

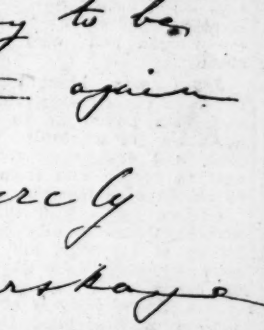

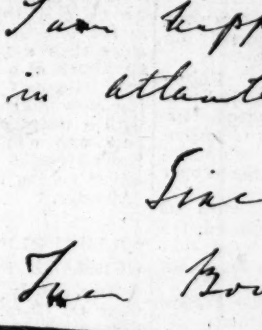

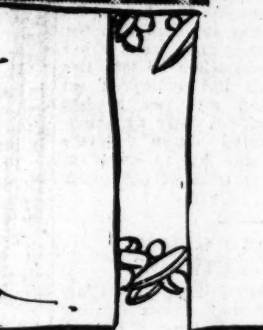

Here is a hello to all my friends in Atlanta—love and greetings. Julia Blausen

For the first time I look forward anxiously for my visit to Atlanta where I get so many friends. Leon Roth

Hello See you Monday in Atlanta. Charlotte Ryan

Is everybody happy? We'll say they are judging from the expressions of these stars of the Metropolitan Opera company who have written their greetings to the people of Atlanta. The stars arrived at 6 o'clock Sunday afternoon on a special train and most of them are quartered at the Biltmore hotel. Rosa Ponselle, dramatic soprano, said she is "proud as a peacock" over her new visit to Atlanta. Giuseppe Bambergh promises to present his new wife to his friends in Atlanta. Leon Roth speaks of his "sixteenth visit" while other stars express much enthusiasm over their visit. But look over their messages in the accompanying layout, they speak eloquently for themselves.

SHERIFF M'CURDY OF DEKALB DIES

Popular Peace Officer Succumbs After Operation for Appendicitis in Atlanta Hospital.

Decatur, Ga., April 22.—(Special). Julius A. McCurdy, sheriff of DeKalb county for the last fifteen years and one of the most prominent and respected citizens of the county, died early Sunday at the Wesley Memorial hospital following an operation for acute appendicitis.

Death followed a brief illness, Mr. McCurdy having been stricken last Wednesday night and operated on early Thursday morning. He failed to rally and his condition became grave Saturday night.

News of the passing of Sheriff McCurdy was a shock to hundreds of friends throughout Fulton and DeKalb counties, where the officer was a popular figure. He had lived all his life in DeKalb county, having been born near Stone Mountain July 12, 1876.

Moving to Decatur many years ago he was elected sheriff in 1912 and began serving in that office on January 1, 1913. He continued to serve as sheriff, never being defeated during the many campaigns involving that position.

In church activities, social and fraternal circles, Mr. McCurdy was highly esteemed for his sincerity, his loyalty and his devotion to his many

TEN THOUSAND BID SMITH GODSPEED

Greatest Ovation in History of Carolina Staged for Governor; Traffic Held Up for Miles.

Asheville, N. C., April 22.—(AP)—Ten thousand people saw Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York, and his vacation here at 4:40 o'clock this afternoon.

People from every walk of life and from every part of western North Carolina and from three neighboring states were jammed into a seething mass about the governor's private car, yelling: "We're for you, Al," and fighting for the opportunity to shake hands with the governor.

In a public statement issued to the press just before his departure Governor Smith pronounced his ten days vacation in the Land of the Sky "one of the happiest periods of my life," and said that the much talked of southern hospitality far exceeded his fondest expectations.

"The wonderful hospitality of the south," his message said, "has made me feel that I was not a mere visitor but that I was as much at home and among my own people as if I were in New York or in the executive mansion in Albany."

GIRL WHO REFUSED TO RIDE WITH MAN IS SERIOUSLY SHOT

Augusta, Ga., April 22.—(AP)—Miss Sarah Clark, 23, school teacher at Salley, S. C., was in a hospital here today in a critical condition from gunshot wounds, while John Henry Baker, of Beecher, S. C., was held in Saluda county, S. C., jail, charged with the shooting.

Reports here said Miss Clark was shot at Ridge Springs, S. C., at the home of J. O. Jones shortly after the school teacher and a party of friends returned from a dance last night. Baker, reports said, became enraged when Miss Clark declined his invitation to enter his automobile.

Hospital attaches here said Miss Clark had one gunshot wound in her throat and another near her heart. Her home is at Langley, S. C.

Balchen Expedition Bogs in Melting Ice; Byrd Hurries to Bedside of Stricken Bennett.

BY C. B. ALLEN. (Special dispatch to The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance.) (Copyright, 1928, in all countries by the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

Murray Bay, Que., April 22.—The Bremen relief plane, which the North American Newspaper Alliance is sending out, has been delayed at Seven Islands by storm conditions. This information was received here this evening in a dispatch from Charles J. V. Murphy. The Alliance staff correspondent on the plane. In this dispatch Mr. Murphy said:

"The Alliance plane is now at Seven Islands. Because of melting snow clinging to the skis, the heavily-laden plane was unable to take off this afternoon. Frost during the night will harden the crust and facilitate a take-off for Greenland island tomorrow morning. We have only 400 miles to go and will make them in a non-stop flight. This means that at the earliest the Bremen will not be able to begin her trip to New York before Tuesday."

CITY IS THRONGED WITH MUSIC LOVERS

With Seat Sales Reported Unusually Heavy, Every Indication Points to New Records This Year.

BY PAUL STEVENSON.

As flashlights of newspaper photographers flared in the well-known gathering dusk and as crowds surged forward to get first glimpses of international celebrities in the world of song, the stars of the Metropolitan Opera company rolled into Atlanta promptly at 6 o'clock Sunday afternoon on a special train over the Southern railway, which landed its millions of dollars' worth of voices in Atlanta for the eighteenth season of grand opera to be launched at the auditorium Monday night with Meyerbeer's great opera "L'Africaine."

Nearly all the roster of the Metropolitan singers was represented in the group that arrived on the special. Marion Talley, soprano, and Grace Moore, soprano, were among the missing, but they will come later in the week. Beniamino Gigli, one of the greatest of living tenors, arrived on an earlier train Sunday afternoon. The ballet and orchestra members will arrive early this morning on another special train.

Headed by Edward Zeigler, assistant general manager, the group of stars arrived from Washington, D. C., where the Metropolitan closed its annual engagement in that city with "Tannhauser," sung Saturday night.

Greeted Warmly. "Here we are again," shouted beautiful Rosa Ponselle to friends who crowded the station to meet the stars, and soon there was a general hand-shaking going on all along the railroad sheds. Henry M. Atkinson, president of the Atlanta Music Festival association, headed the reception committee and was ably seconded by Charles Howard Candler, treasurer, and Robert S. Parker, secretary.

"The grand opera twins" is what Mr. Ponselle called Mr. Candler and Mr. Parker as they shook hands with her.

Mr. Zeigler told The Constitution that the company is right on edge for the Atlanta engagement, and that, with nine operas scheduled, everything is propitious for one of the greatest seasons ever enjoyed by this city.

"We expect to have a highly successful engagement here, from an artistic as well as from all other standpoints," Mr. Zeigler said.

General Manager Gatti-Casazza is coming to Atlanta for the series of operas, but Mr. Zeigler said he was unable to state the exact time of his arrival.

"I expect to hear from him soon as to his plans," he said. After the photographers had taken dozens of pictures of the stars in all kinds of poses and after the friends of the singers had almost wrung off the hands of some of the popular stars the group of singers was finally disentangled from the Sunday traffic jam around the Brookwood station and whisked away to the Biltmore hotel in all kinds of high-powered and distinguished-looking automobiles.

At the Biltmore hotel another merry scene was enacted as groups of stars formed in the lobby and chatted with Atlanta friends. Manager William C. Rorer was on hand to provide for every possible comfort for the stars and to see that they were promptly ensconced in their quarters at the Biltmore.

SANDINO ABDUCTS FIVE AMERICANS

New York, April 22.—(AP)—Confirmation of Associated Press reports from Bluefields, Nicaragua, that General Augusto Sandino and his followers had raided an American gold mine in the department of Prinzapolca and taken as prisoners all employees, including several Americans, was received by owners of the La Luz mine in that district.

The message, which came from the private wireless station of the Standard Fruit and Steamship company at Puerto Cabelas, Nicaragua, through the company's office at New Orleans, said:

"On the 12th Sandino raided La Luz, taking all the gold, money, merchandise, animals, also Marshall and all employees prisoner."

J. Gilmore Fletcher, president of the La Luz and Los Angeles Mining company, operators of the mine, received the message at his New York office. He said four Americans and one Englishman in addition to 100 Indians were employed at the mine.

The "Marshall" mentioned in the message, he said, was George B. Marshall, of New York city, assistant superintendent. Other Americans there, he said, were L. D. Malbury, of Woodville, N. H.; Roy Burley and J. Peterson, addresses unknown, and the superintendent, Harry J. Amplett, a British subject.

Fletcher said he could not estimate the loss suffered by the company until further details were available.

PRIMARY IN OHIO IS TEST OF G. O. P.

Ohio has, according to dispatches from the scene of carnage, been one of the most bloody of the presidential politics has seen in many days. Every weakness of Hoover, real and alleged, has been emphasized. Hoover, on the other hand, has had no single opponent to shoot at since Senator Wiley died. Hoover bears the burden of a concentrated attack while fighting against the native son, Davis, are most prominent. This situation has some advantages for Hoover but none which save him from the chief individual target of the most bitter personal attack. Which makes Hoover himself the issue and which, if the result is at all decisive either way, gives it just that much more significance.

Hoover Must Win Ohio. Just around the corner are the Indiana primaries, May 8, but it is so generally expected that Senator Watson, the favorite son, will carry the state that this will have been discounted in advance of it happens.

One reason that Ohio is so important to Hoover is that much of his delegate strength is uncommitted. He has 100 delegates instructed and 84 uncommitted. Many of these uncommitted delegates are apt to desert if a more promising bandwagon comes along. Lowden has 126 instructed delegates and only 45 uncommitted, indicating that his block of delegates as thus far chosen is more solidly tied to him. It is necessary for the Hoover campaign to keep up its more to avoid the danger of shrinkage in delegates.

Underlying the actual delegate situation is the attitude of party leaders like Hill in New York, who have tremendous power in convention negotiations. They want first of all candidates who can win. All Smith makes that a paramount consideration. It practically eliminates unknowns and untied candidates. A striking demonstration of vote-getting power in Ohio would make Hoover a hard man for even his most bitter enemies to ignore in the convention. A weak showing would give them a powerful weapon.

He has the advantage, once granted vote-getting power, of being the most in harmony with Coolidge of the three leading candidates. Lowden and Davies are at odds on farm relief, but to reap the benefit of this situation, Hoover is compelled to demonstrate that he can get votes. They speak louder than anything else.

By the Associated Press.

In all, 177 republican and 166 democratic delegates will be selected in primaries Tuesday. In convention tomorrow, Rhode Island delegates will name a delegation of ten and later in the week, democratic delegates from Kansas and Hawaii will be chosen, while the republican delegates in Alabama and Michigan will be rounded out and chosen from Nevada and Arizona selected. From the standpoint of naming delegates, the week will be the busiest of the pre-convention campaign. A total of 216 republicans will be picked, bringing the number of delegates actually selected up to an even 700. Democratic delegates to be chosen number 292, which will bring that party's total by Saturday night up to 700.

Smith adherents are seeking to line up the ten delegates from Rhode Island tomorrow and the Smith slate of six delegates is the only one entered in the Rhode Island primary today. Four of the five candidates for the two places as republican delegates from Alaska have not committed themselves as candidates while the other favors Hoover.

The champions of Senator Reed, of Missouri, are laying plans to capture the 20 democratic delegates from Kansas with the Smith forces seeking the six delegates to be chosen in Hawaii.

SHERIFF M'CURDY DIES AFTER OPERATION

He was a devout member of the First Baptist church of Decatur; a member of Pythagoras lodge of Masons; a member of the Yachsa temple; a member of the Junior Order United American Mechanics and Woodmen of the World, as well as the Odd Fellows and other secret orders. Besides his widow, Mrs. Leomie M'Curdy, he is survived by two sons, J. A. M'Curdy, Jr., and Walter P. M'Curdy, of Decatur; a sister, Mrs. John S. M'Curdy, of Coral Gables, Fla.; three brothers, John F. M'Curdy, Philip E. M'Curdy, of Stone Mountain, and Mark T. M'Curdy, of Birmingham.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed late Sunday, pending the arrival of relatives from other cities. It is expected, however, that services will be conducted at the M'Curdy home Tuesday.

Sheriff M'Curdy leaves a host of admirers who mourn his passing. As a token of respect the police force of the DeKalb Chamber of Commerce, scheduled for Wednesday, has been deferred, it was announced.

Now that everybody's bought his ticket, the big problem is how to get to opera tonight. Since the last foot show, it seems that Atlanta has forgotten where the auditorium is. In order that readers of this column may not get lost in the traffic, our special staff artist has prepared the accompanying map. for the Junker monoplane, Bremen, took air at 10 minutes after 6 this morning from Lake St. Agnes en route to Greenville Island.

After the plane had taken off she settled sickeningly as Balchen nosed her over to gain speed and seemed about to crash into the low hills ahead. The pilot pulled her up to a safe altitude just in time.

Thereafter officials of the Canadian Trans-Continental Airways, operators of the air base at Lake St. Agnes and the owners of the first plane to reach the German-Island crew of the trans-Atlantic Bremen, received reports of the relief plane's progress with surprising regularity considering the lack of communications which have existed in the country north and east of Murray Bay since the Junkers plane landed.

A telegram was received here from Balchen, Fitzmaurice and Murphy which said the plane had landed and refueled but was unable to take off again with its heavy load in the sun-softened and slushy snow and would start for Greenville at dawn tomorrow when the surface of the ice is solid.

Balchen in the pilot's cockpit at the take-off sat Major Fitzmaurice. The only other persons in the plane with Balchen and Fitzmaurice were Ernst Koepfen, mechanic, who will superintend re-pairments and prepare to start at once from his home in Boston to Quebec, it was announced at the New York headquarters of the expedition.

Commander Byrd planned to leave Boston tonight at 9 o'clock by rail and expected to reach Quebec early tomorrow afternoon.

SOUTHWEST STORM KILLS ONE MAN

North Louisiana, east Texas and southern Arkansas today were recovering from the effects of the wind and rain storm which swept the area last week-end with reported damages estimated at approximately $1,000,000.

There was one death by lightning reported in the storm, and the killing of an automobile in a downpour.

More than 700 derricks were said to have been blown over in the oil fields, Missing Norphlet being the town in which the gale inflicted heaviest loss, although Calton suffered the most damage.

Telephone and power lines were damaged along the coast. Three miles of power lines have been blown down.

Under clearing a heavy rain storm, crops suffered, according to reports.

Red Cross Aids Stricken Section.

Texarkana, Ark., April 22.—(AP)—Under clearing a heavy rain storm, workers today went about relief work in the sections of southwest Arkansas and northeast Texas, where tornadoes yesterday destroyed many buildings and injured 24 persons.

All the injured were expected to recover. Most of them are negroes.

Plantation owners and towns from Atlanta, Texas, 30 miles southwest of here, to Fulton, Ark., 14 miles north, were clearing damage today.

Estimates of the damage from the tornado, which swept a three-mile wide path, placed it at near $125,000.

MEMPHIS DAMAGE PLACED AT $300,000.

With communication lines restored to the area swept by devastating wind and rain storms early Saturday night, reports received in Memphis placed an estimate on property damage in this vicinity at $1,000,000, with three dead and two seriously injured.

Crews of workmen worked all night and Sunday repairing telegraph and telephone lines.

Atoka, Tenn., near Memphis, hardest hit by the storm, will lose no time in rebuilding its homes and buildings, Mayor J. J. Fleming said tonight.

"Virtually every building in Atoka was either destroyed or damaged by the storm, with a loss of $100,000."

Paul Forbes, 13, was killed and 15 injured at Atoka, where a plane was drowned at Memphis and another near died at Sardis, Miss., when a falling tree crushed his skull.

Thirty-five persons injured in this vicinity were reported tonight as recovering. None will die, hospital attaches said.

Checking up on the loss at Memphis placed the damage at $300,000. More than 100 homes were demolished when the storm hit here.

CAROLINA WIRES BLOWN DOWN.

A brisk thunder squall with rain swept across this section from the southwest shortly after noon today and did slight damage to telephone lines and other property. Although the wind was not strong, it had attained a high velocity at that point, the ground was soft from recent rains and a number of trees were blown down.

The telephone lines resulted in this manner.

The American Telephone and Telegraph company reported that important communications were cut out of order at Denmark, south of Columbia, and near Winstonsboro to the north.

DEATH SENDS EXILE OF MEXICAN BISHOP

Archbishop Jose Mora Del Rio, 75, exiled head of the Roman Catholic church in Mexico, died here today in a hospital to which he had been hurried four days ago when he reached San Antonio from Cuba.

Driven from Mexico in 1927, the aged archbishop spent eight months in San Antonio. He was then in feeble health, but left several months ago for Havana. His relatives include a sister, the archbishop's nephew, brother in Mexico City and a cousin, Bishop Genaro Mendez, of Mexico City. The latter is in San Antonio.

Archbishop Mora was a member of the Mexican revolution and was a close friend of the late President Calles. He was a man of slender physique.

Plans for the funeral include a requiem mass in San Fernando cathedral here Tuesday morning, and burial will take place in the new San Fernando cemetery, the fifth of that name founded by the archbishop since it was established in 1728.

SOUTH GEORGIA HOG SALE HUGE SUCCESS

Valdosta, Ga., April 22.—A cooperative hog sale in Lakeland during the last week was reported as a great success. There were 125 hogs sold, totaling being 18,500 pounds.

For this the owners received $14,445.55. The hogs averaged 105 each and brought an average of $7.10. Lanier county farmers are giving the hogs a very prominent place in the year's farm schedule, it is stated.

WILKINS WRITES OF POLAR PERILS

New York, April 22.—The New York Times in a copyrighted article tomorrow will carry a dispatch of 2,200 words received from Captain George H. Wilkins, arctic flyer, describing his flight across the north pole.

The dispatch will say that the flight ended under conditions of the greatest peril. The take-off from Point Barrow, the article will say, despite the help of a large band of volunteer snow shovelers from among the Eskimos, thrice failed before the heavily loaded plane could be raised into the air, the metal skis with which it was equipped breaking each time.

Finally, on Sunday, April 15, a start was made in good weather with excellent visibility for 500 miles, which then changed to cloud banks of even grayness. No signs of an island was seen where Peary, Stefansson and MacMillan had thought there might be land, but it was too dangerous to descend and take soundings.

Nine hundred miles from Spitzbergen stormy winds were encountered but they were in the fliers' favor. A single mountain peak was sighted in Greenland in the far distance and Wilkins descended to a lower altitude.

He ran into heavy clouds over a turbulent ocean stirred by a violent gale which rocked the plane to its perilous degree. At this time they passed an island containing an apparently smooth spot. They were running short of gasoline so the only recourse was to run back and descend which they did, making a safe landing.

On the island, which later proved to be Dead Man's island, more than 50 miles from Green Harbor they were held for five days during the worst arctic weather. Captain Wilkins has ever experienced. Then the safe blow itself out and rising with much difficulty Wilkins himself being twice left on the ice when the plane rose, they flew on toward Green Harbor where they landed within an hour and were hospitably received.

PLANE DAMAGED IN LANDING.
Copenhagen, Denmark, April 22.—(P)—Word came here today from Green Harbor, Spitzbergen, that the Lockheed Vega plane of Captain George H. Wilkins was slightly damaged when it landed on the ice there Saturday.

Oslo, Norway, April 22.—(P)—Captain Wilkins and his co-pilot, the Alaskan mail flier, Carl B. Eielson, must remain in Iceland at the northern outpost of Europe several weeks unless they decide to fly away.

Radio messages from their landing place today reported that the ice pack extends for many miles and that no vessel can approach their haven in the last until the general thaw loosens the pack about the middle of May. The reports said there was extreme cold and fresh snow at Green Harbor today. Twenty-six degrees of frost were noted there which would make the temperature 15 below zero on American Fahrenheit thermometers.

Both Captain Wilkins and Eielson are said to be in good health and receive every attention and comfort during their involuntary stay at the harbor which is not far from the Long-year coal mines where several hundred persons live the year around.

TOM MIX WILL GET THREE MILLIONS
FOR 2-YEAR JOB

Kansas City, April 22.—(P)—Tom Mix, hard-riding hero of the film, has "landed" a three-million-dollar two-year contract, which his representative, John D. Hill, said in making the announcement here last night, was among the largest in history of moviedom, between star and producer.

The deal, Hill said, was consummated here between Mix and Colvin W. Brown, vice president of F. B. O., a large booking office and producing corporation.

Mix, who appeared in vaudeville here last week, is working eastward to New York, where he had planned to sail for Argentina June 9. He was under contract with an Argentine concern to produce pictures in that country to be distributed by the F. B. O. corporation.

That contract is abrogated by the new one and Mix will return to Hollywood on the completion of his vaudeville tour in June to begin work on the first of eight pictures.

MILLER IS REELECTED
WAYCROSS HI LEADER

Waycross, Ga., April 22.—(Special)—Will D. Miller has been re-elected principal of the Waycross High school by a unanimous vote of the board of education. He has served as principal for a number of years and has built up one of the finest accredited high schools in the state.

The other principals elected are: Junior High school, Miss Lillian Mid-dlemans; Isabella Street school, Miss Willie R. Beck; Morton Avenue, Miss Lily J. Jones; Quartermen, Mrs. Agnes Findlay; Crawford Street, Miss Mary Leford; Gilchrist Park, Miss Mary Sue Cannon.

FLOOD BILL FIGHT IN HOUSE TODAY

Washington, April 22.—A coalition of western republicans and practically all of the democrats in the house tomorrow will throw down the gauntlet to President Coolidge on the Mississippi flood control legislation unless house republican leaders are able to consummate an eleven-hour agreement with supporters of the senate flood bill on revisions favored by the president.

The supporters of the flood measure are confident that it will be approved by the house, even though they reject the president's suggested amendments. House leaders feel, however, that Coolidge will veto the measure and are confident that they can muster sufficient strength to sustain him.

Under the plans of Chairman Reid, of the house flood control committee, who is piloting the measure through the house, consideration of the bill will be resumed tomorrow after having been set aside two days "at week to permit conferences between the opposing groups on a compromise."

In what form the measure will be presented to the house remained in doubt today. The flood control committee will meet early tomorrow to determine its course of action. Two paths are open to it—to continue the consideration of the bill in its present form or to offer as a substitute a measure embodying some of the revisions specified by the president.

Opponents of the measure, led by two republicans, Representatives Kopp, Iowa, and Frost, Wisconsin, have announced they will make a determined effort to have a number of amendments accepted in the hope of making it more acceptable to Mr. Coolidge. The house republican leaders, including Representative Tilson, Connecticut; Chairman Madden, of the appropriations committee; and Chairman Smith, of the rules committee, also are expected during the discussion of amendments to point out the probable failure of the measure by a veto.

The rejected proposals were: That the state of Texas assume the cost of the rights of way for the levees on the proposed floodways and spillways in Arkansas, Louisiana and Missouri; a provision placing upon New Orleans and southeastern Missouri and southern Illinois the damages for the proposed flood works respectively of the Bonnet Carré spillway and the New Madrid floodway, and third, a provision that land-owners in the proposed floodways would be obliged to seek redress through the federal courts.

These proposals undoubtedly will be offered as amendments by the bill's opponents. The flood control group, however, has agreed to several of the president's specified changes and may incorporate them in a substitute measure. They include the assumption of the cost of rights of way for levees on the main Mississippi river by the states instead of the federal government and the provision that a provision in the present bill to make the federal government liable for damages to railroads in the path of the proposed floodways.

The senate bill in its present form, would place the entire burden of the flood control project's cost upon the federal government.

RAY KEECH BREAKS
AUTO SPEED RECORD

record on the basis of the first and third runs. When informed by the officials, however, that the 30-minute trial run was the first run was made had expired, White instructed Keach to make two more runs to avoid a dispute.

Starts Off Angry.
When Keach was informed that his time for the second run had not been recorded, tears welled into his eyes and he appeared heartbroken.

He said he was confident that he had broken the record. Then he became enraged and said he would "show 'em I can break it, but they'd better see that their timing devices are working, because I'm not out here running for my health."

Odin Porter, official timer, was unable to explain the device had not worked. He expressed the theory that the Triplic may have struck a bump just before it reached the wire trap, stretching across the beach to mark the beginning of the official mile, and jumped the wire.

His anger aroused, Keach climbed back into the huge tri-motored machine and drove slowly back up the beach to the south end, turned around and prepared to make his next run north with the wind. Taking a four-mile rolling start, the giant car roared down the beach through a light haze and as it passed the grandstand a loud cheer arose from the spectators. The machine appeared to be functioning perfectly and it held to the beach nicely. Almost in an instant after it passed the judges' stand, it disappeared into the haze and a great cloud of black smoke that rolled out of the exhaust pipes that led from the three motors.

Scarcely had the spectators slumped back into their seats physically exhausted from the tension which they had been under, when the giant machine came roaring back up the beach on its final run. Again a mighty cheer rose from the crowd, as it appeared certain that Keach had broken the record.

The moment the machine crossed the final wire, the timers set about feverishly to calculate the speed, when it was announced that a new record had been established, the crowd went wild and swarmed out onto the beach to greet the driver when he came back to the pits.

Crowding about the giant machine, the spectators literally pulled Keach from the cockpit and hoisted him to their shoulders, cheering loudly. He was carried to the judges' stand and received congratulations from the city officials.

Suffers Burned Arm.
"Boy howdy," said I. I never did so much running in all my life. I'm certainly glad those timing devices worked this time."

Then he rolled back his sleeve and exhibited his right arm. It had been slightly burned, he said when his front motor backfired during his last run, sending a stream of blazing gasoline against his body. He said he extinguished the fire immediately and that it did not interfere with his driving.

Keach said that on his last two runs, the wind picked it several feet toward the dunes, but that he was able to fight it, and continue his race against time. He said his car completely lost traction both times it was thrown off its course by the wind.

On his run, made when the timing device failed to work, Keach said his instruments showed that he was traveling at a speed of 220 miles an hour and that he was certain that his car had not jumped the wire.

Keach said that if Frank Lockhart, during young Indianapolis driver, who expects to set a new record with his Stutz Blackhawk, succeeds in breaking his record, he would make another attempt.

Lockhart Will Run Today.
Lockhart, however, is expected to start his run today. He has completed his run of 100 miles in 100 high to permit Lockhart to run. On his first test trial today Lockhart negotiated the official mile in 17.87 seconds for a speed of 301.45445 miles an hour with the wind, and on his return trip he was clocked at 19.51 seconds for a speed of 384.52075 miles an hour. His average elapsed time was 15.89 seconds and his average speed was 192.61637 miles an hour.

He said he would make his official trial for a new record tomorrow.

Wilbur Shaw, Indianapolis driver, who had expected to make an attempt to better the world's record of 141.7 miles an hour for four-cylinder cars, has been forced to abandon his efforts for several days. It developed today that during a test run yesterday his car blew a piston, and as he does not have an extra one here he will be compelled to wait until it can be shipped from the factory.

"DRAFT COOLIDGE"
EAST PROPAGANDA

BY MARK SULLIVAN.

Washington, April 22.—Clarification of the recurrently pressed demand that Mr. Coolidge be given the republican presidential nomination is called for by several reasons. It is of greater importance at this moment than the numbers of delegations being chosen in various states, and at all times is absolutely the decisive factor.

It calls for clarification for the further reason that much of the discussion of it has the effect of mystifying the public. Some of the discussion is inspired at least partially by the wish to make an intended impression on the public and that portion of the discussion which is candid and disinterested in necessarily so fragmentary as to leave the reader puzzled.

The current installment of the discussion, which is not the first and will hardly turn out to be the last, began with the publication of substantially identical stories in the more important New York city newspapers last Friday. All were to the effect that the "draft Coolidge" movement was gathering strength. All were based on an anonymous authority described as "certain national republican leaders here" (in New York city). When the stories were read in Washington, it was assumed that the "draft Coolidge" movement, that the stories either were inspired by or reflected the wishes of the official heads of the local New York state republican organization. The correctness or incorrectness of that inference is completely immaterial. If the New York state leaders are promoting the "draft Coolidge" idea, they have entirely respectable company in some of the highest strata of national republican leadership.

To Check Hoover Movement.
It is true that some of the "draft Coolidge" movement has merely the purpose of trying to check the increasing momentum of the Hoover movement. It is a definite element in the campaign that "draft Coolidge" talk is shrewdly made use of as propaganda to embroil the cover by some who are no more for Mr. Coolidge than they are for Hoover, and whose real purpose is to nominate some one else.

But it is also true and can be stated on direct authority that the crisis to renominate Coolidge is held with the most earnest sincerity by some very important republican leaders who have no more to do with the Hoover movement than they do with the "draft Coolidge" movement. For the advantage of simplicity, the present dispatch will confine itself to this group.

Probably a carefully accurate picture of the state of mind of this particular group would describe them as saying: "Hoover is all right with me and I'm going to support him in the convention because, among other reasons, he is the only candidate identified with the administration. But Lord how I wish we could make Coolidge himself take the nomination." When asked for reasons they always say as their first: "It looks just now as if Smith might get the democratic nomination and we need Coolidge as the strongest vote-caster against Smith."

All Eastern Exponents.
At this point it turns out that most of this particular group of "draft Coolidge" exponents have a definite geographical limitation. They are almost all from New York, New England, or elsewhere in the east. When they say they need Coolidge to beat Smith, they mean not to beat Smith in the nation for the presidency, but merely to get out the largest republican vote in the eastern states and cities in order to assure the election of local congressmen, senators and other local officials involved.

These leaders are not urging "draft Coolidge" primarily in terms of the nation, but in local terms. They are not thinking nationally, and in conversations on this point cannot be kept to thinking nationally. The other republican leaders who think nationally do not see the danger that can beat Smith for the presidency with almost any republican likely to be nominated. But the situation in the east can be illustrated by Massachusetts.

Much of the electorate of Massachusetts and of lower New England generally are smaller in its wealth and in other respects to the New York city electorate, which makes an idol of Smith. Consequently it is universally admitted that Smith would run strong in this territory. Equally it is universally admitted that with Mr. Coolidge as the head of the republican ticket, the republicans could carry his own state of Massachusetts as well as probably the rest of New England, together with New York. By carrying this territory is meant not merely carrying it on the presidential ticket, but what is primarily in the minds of the leaders, carrying it for the four senators and the congressmen and other local officials involved.

Local Concern.
It is this that mainly composes what some eastern leaders sincerely urge as an emergency sufficient to justify the demand that Mr. Coolidge disregard his personal wish, reverse his position and permit himself to be renominated. In their intent concentration on their local concerns, they cannot be persuaded to look forward and consider what might be the effect of such a step by Mr. Coolidge on his prestige in the country as a whole, or on his place in history.

As to what the final answer will be, that lies wholly in Mr. Coolidge's mind and the decision will be unaffected by any other matter. The answer so far has been firmly "no." That the answer will continue to be no is believed by the overwhelming bulk of those whose circumstances permit them to think this question over on local self-interest. It is possible, Mr. Coolidge's latest affirmation of "no" might have been more pregnant but for the fact that it had to be addressed.

to the state chairman of Massachusetts, who happens to be the son-in-law of Mr. Coolidge's most intimate personal associate, Frank Stearns, and whose sincerity is unquestionable. Sooner or later Mr. Coolidge may address one of his letters to one of the quite different group whose advocacy of "draft Coolidge" is meant to serve a personal purpose.

The relation of this question to the campaign as a whole is clear. If Mr. Coolidge should reverse himself, Hoover would pass out of the picture as well as everybody else. Any president in office who wants or is willing to accept a renomination gets it as a matter of course. Hoover's friends would have no occasion to repine, for the Hoover candidacy from the beginning and at all times is contingent on his chief's being out of the race. If, on the other hand, Mr. Coolidge maintains his position, Hoover is greatly helped, for practically every "draft Coolidge" man who is sincere is also necessarily a "Hoover next" man. Those whose "draft Coolidge" advocacy is camouflage for another purpose compose a separate group not included in the discussion in the present article.

unless it works?

You know how much money you have to spend each month. Food, heat, light, clothing, saving—but your carefully worked-out budget is no good unless you make it work as you have planned.

The one who spends the money should know how to buy. To know how requires practice and study. The best text-books in buying are the advertisements in your daily newspaper. They will tell you what you want to buy, where to buy it, the price. This knowledge will assure wise spending.

Advertisements keep you posted on the newest products and improvements of the manufacturers and merchants. They are competing for your business. Each knows that his product must be good and the price right to get the business of the wise buyer.

Advertisements are the daily gauge of business progress. They are filled with interest and instruction. Read them carefully—for wise buying will make your budget work.

ARE Dull Teeth Freed of Dingy Film
Send for 10-Day Free Test

"OFF-COLOR" teeth can be lightened amazingly, even to often give dazzling whiteness. With right daily care you can work a great change in the color of your teeth. Can give them clear and charming gleam. There is a new way in tooth and gum care. A way that removes the dingy film that clouds your teeth. . . . A film that absorbs discolorations and keeps teeth dingy looking.

Just run your tongue across your teeth. And you will feel that film. It is the great enemy of pretty teeth and healthy gums. It clings to the teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It forms a breeding place for germs. It lays your gums open to bacterial attack, your teeth open to decay. Those germs, with tartar, are the chief cause of dreaded pyorrhea.

Old-time methods failed in successfully removing film. Ordinary brushing fails to do it satisfactorily. Under film are the clear, whiter teeth you envy in others.

Now modern science has perfected an effective film combatant, called Pepsodent. It acts to curdle film, then remove it. It firms and protects gums; beautifies teeth quickly and correctly. Spring Find You Tired and Achy?

You Can't Feel Well When Kidneys Act Sluggishly
DO these spring days find you languid and out of sorts? Too many feel tired and listless in the spring. Too often the cause is sluggish kidneys.

To be well the kidneys must thoroughly cleanse the blood of poisonous waste. Sluggish kidneys permit waste impurities to remain and cause slow poisoning of the system.

One is apt to feel tired and drowsy—to have a dull, nagging backache and annoying headaches and dizzy spells. That the kidneys are not working right is often shown by too frequent, scanty or burning excretions.

Assist the kidneys with Doan's Pills. Doan's, a stimulant diuretic, increase the secretion of the kidneys, and thus aid in the elimination of waste impurities. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. Ask your neighbor!

"Use Doan's," Say These Georgia People:

P. E. WILCOX, 710 Marion St., Waycross, Ga., says: "Jarring and jolting while riding affected my kidneys and brought on lame back. Frequently sharp pains seized me and I could hardly move. The kidney secretions passed too often, getting me up at night. They burned in passage, too. I was advised to try Doan's Pills and they rid me of the pain and fixed my kidneys all right."

D. C. GRANT, Brady St., Savannah, Ga., says: "Doan's Pills have been used in our family and they are the best preparation of the kind we have used. I had disordered kidneys and lame back after the flu. My kidneys acted too freely and caused no little annoyance. After I had taken Doan's Pills, all signs of the trouble left and I haven't been bothered since."

VICTIMS OF 'QUAKE IN PATH OF FLOOD

Sofia, Bulgaria, April 22.—(P)—To the panic and despair resulting from the heavy earthquakes in south-eastern Bulgaria have been added sufferings from floods. Reports from Philippopolis and other points in the devastated region said that it had been raining unceasingly 48 hours. A tenth of the 125,000 persons affected by the quake have shelter of a sort where they have been able to improvise huts. There are thousands, however, exposed to the full rigors of the weather. Added to these sufferings is a scarcity of food and a lack of fuel.

Premier Liancheff today repeated to the Associated Press that foreign help must come for the destitute population who will be compelled to live a long time without adequate shelter and on scant rations. He said that even a partial restoration of the devastated regions is beyond Bulgaria's unaided resources.

The relief, however, has started to arrive. The American Red Cross telegraphed $5,000. The pope sent 500,000 leva (about $90,000). World came from Belgrade that all Jugoslavians have been roused to assist.

The Jugo-Slav Red Cross dispatched 60,000 dinars (about $12,000) as a first installment of its contribution.

ATHENS REPORTS
FOUR TREMBLES.

Athens, Greece, April 22.—(P)—Four violent earthquakes were felt here this evening. An early check failed to show any great damage. Inhabitants of this city flocked to the streets and remained in the open until long after the tremors had ceased.

Showers Seen As Opera Week Dawns on City

All scenic efforts do not come out of the painter's pot, and so it is that "L'Africaine," the initial opera of the season, with the scene laid in India, will be attended by the slow, dank rains of that country, according to the weather bureau forecast for Atlanta and vicinity.

Disregarding pleas of the rabid opera fans, the weather man heartlessly predicts showers and thunderstorms for today, and resulting many a slick slicker will hide the "soup-an" tonight. Temperatures Sunday ranged from a low of 58 degrees to 70 degrees and temperatures today will be about the same.

ACTING MAYOR URGES 'BETTER HOMES' WORK

Sounding pleas for Atlantans and Georgians to cooperate in the "Better Home" week, which runs through Saturday of this week, Mayor Pro Tem, Claude L. Ashley and Governor I. G. Hardman have officially proclaimed this week as belonging to the national "Better Homes" movement.

Calling on Atlanta to maintain the high position it has held in the past in the annual "Better Homes" movement, Mayor Pro Tem, Ashley pointed out the value of the home to the community and the necessity of the home being a place of beauty and quality.

"Atlanta several years ago won distinction in the better home movement," Mr. Ashley said. "Year after year since has maintained a leading place in the race for first honors."

"The home is our greatest institution and aids to its improvement are valuable contributions, not only to those homes and individuals directly affected, but to society as well."

"The better homes movement undertakes to deal with principal matters connected with normal home life, such as construction and furnishing of homes; cultivation of landscaping grounds, health, play, education and character, and."

"Therefore, I, C. L. Ashley, mayor pro tem, of the city of Atlanta, do proclaim the period of April 23-26 as 'Better Homes' week and trust that the splendid success of previous campaigns will be repeated."

Various towns and communities over the state are making special observance of the week, and Atlanta for the past three years has won honorable mention in the movement. A total of 125 Georgia communities have been organized under capable leadership to demonstrate better homes this week.

Governor Hardman pointed out in his proclamation that Georgia is one of the 31 states in which a state organization has been effected for the 1928 movement.

PENNZOIL LUBRICANT FOR POLAR FLIGHT

Pennzoil motor oil was used by Captain George H. Wilkins, in his perilous flight of 2,200 miles to the north pole, it was revealed Sunday in a telegram to the Alexander-See-ward company, local distributors of the product.

The daring aviator, in the flight where every detail of the motor and its fuel is the item between life and death, chose Pennzoil as his motor lubricant because of its unusually high qualities to resist cold, and its purity, the telegram said.

DR. JOHN WHITE OPENS REVIVAL HERE TONIGHT

When the Rev. Dr. John E. White, former president of Anderson college, for 16 years pastor of the Second Baptist church here, and now pastor of the historic First Baptist church, Savannah, opens a two weeks' revival at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Gordon Street Baptist church, Fred Barnes, vocalist and choir director of the Southern Baptist convention, will turn over to him a well trained choir.

Mr. Barnes arrived in Atlanta Sunday and directed music at the morning and evening services. He is one of the best known soloists in the south and it is expected that the musical programs at the revival will be a distinct feature, in addition to the powerful sermons which Dr. White will bring to Atlantans.

Dr. White has a large following in Atlanta, where he was the pastor for almost two decades. He will deliver two services daily—one at 10 o'clock each morning except Monday and Saturday and at 7:30 o'clock each night except Saturday.

Dr. William Howard Faust, pastor of the church, filled the pulpit at the morning service and eight persons signified their desire to be baptized. Dr. Faust declared a special service will be held at the close of the revival at which all those wishing to affiliate with the church will be formally received.

Dr. Max L. Reich, of Philadelphia, honorary president of the Hebrew Christian Alliance of America and one of the principal speakers at the 14th annual conference of the alliance, which opens this morning at the Baptist Tabernacle, occupied the pulpit Sunday night.

EVANGELIST TO SING IN NON-OPERA HOURS

The Rev. Dr. A. G. Garr, famous evangelist, who is conducting a revival service, beginning at 7:45 o'clock each night, announced Sunday that he has accepted the request of a special committee representing backers of the grand opera season in Atlanta, and will schedule his song services so as "not to interfere with the opera program."

Intermittent rains and threatening clouds failed to dampen the ardor of the large congregations Sunday, the opening meetings of the Garr revival, and the large tent which is spread on a lot adjacent to the city auditorium was comfortably filled.

Two strong sermons were delivered by the internationally-known speaker, who came to Atlanta announcing "the day of miracles has not passed, and I have seen God heal the sick while congregations prayed for them."

Hitting sects and denominations, and declaring "I hope we will get so close to God in these meetings that we will be lifted up above rituals and sects," the speaker held that the church is missing its opportunity in the world because of its lack of faith in God.

"There never was a time in which God meant that His gospel and faith in Him should not make men and women spiritually, morally and physically whole," Dr. Garr said. "I have seen Him do it. I will not tell you of it, but by His grace, He will do it in Atlanta if we will but place our faith in Him and trust Him."

"These services are here for the people of Atlanta. We shall endeavor in our feeble way to assist, but God is here to bless Atlanta and Atlantans. His spirit will make you whole, will purge you of sin and will glorify Him who died to save us all through faith."

Dr. Garr conducted a series of revival services recently in Angeles temple, since Temple McBurness's Los Angeles tabernacle, and has held meetings in many of the leading cities of India, China, Japan, England and other nations of the globe. He probably is one of the world's best known pulpit orators, and attracts large congregations.

NEW YORK YACHTS HELD BY STORMS ON EASTERN COAST

South Port, N. C., April 22.—(P)—Twelve small yachts belonging to prominent New York people are weathered here, while a north-easter blows up heavy seas.

Only the necessary crews are on board the craft, the owners having returned from Florida by rail and in some instances airplane. The captains, when advised that weather conditions did not look favorable for weighing anchor tonight or tomorrow, stated that there was nothing imperative about the trip and they would remain in harbor here until it was safer for voyaging off the treacherous North Carolina coast.

PETTY LOOT TAKEN IN TWO BURGLARIES

Cigars, cigarettes, candy, perfume and 75 pennies were reported stolen by burglars from two stores and two negro boys were frightened away from a third Saturday night according to reports turned in to the police station.

From the grocery store of C. W. Payne, 124 Elliott street, was taken a small quantity of cigarettes and the 75 pennies. From the Tenth Street pharmacy, at the corner of Peachtree and Tenth streets, was taken cigars, cigarettes, candy and perfume.

A passerby saw the two boys just after they had broken into Pierce Dry Goods company and notified police but the boys escaped before Call Officers Claude Carroll and John Crankshaw could arrive upon the scene.

Monroe Shrine.

Fredericksburg, Va., April 22.—(United News)—The little, one-story law office where James Monroe, fifth president and author of the Monroe doctrine, started practice will be dedicated as a national shrine on April 28 on the one hundred and seventeenth anniversary of Monroe's birth.

ANOTHER ATTACK ON LONE WOMAN REPORTED SUNDAY

An unidentified white man, whose description answers that of the "fiend" who has been responsible for numerous previous offenses, attacked a 23-year-old married woman on Woodward avenue, near Cooper street.

Sunday night, according to a report made to the police station, the woman told police that the man pressed a pistol against her neck and that she screamed, whereupon he hit her on the head with the pistol and then in the face with his fist. She continued to scream and the man fled between two houses.

The attacker was described as being about five feet ten inches tall and wearing a gray cap and suit. Detectives W. J. Anderson and J. C. Davis investigated.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER ARE HURT IN CAR CRASH

Mrs. Ludy Smith, R. F. D. No. 5, and her daughter, Janette, 5, were carried to the Georgia Baptist hospital Sunday night for treatment for injuries received when Mrs. Smith drove her car into a safety zone post in front of Spiller's park. The little girl was reported to be in a serious condition, suffering from a brain injury and the mother to be suffering with severe lacerations about her face, head and body.

Patrolmen C. R. Herndon and W. L. Tyson, reported that a broken bottle was found under the rear seat and the odor of whisky was about the car.

Lepers Play Golf.

Washington, April 22.—(United News).—Lepers at the national leper home at Cereville, La., are now playing golf and tennis, according to an announcement today by the United States public health service. A small golf course has been started on the patient's campus and a concrete tennis court constructed.

CROWDS AT LAKEWOOD FOR SUNDAY CONCERT

Despite unfavorable weather conditions, an unusually large crowd was present at the hand concert Sunday afternoon at Lakewood park, the second day's feature of the summer season. The attendance far exceeded expectations of officials which is indicative of one of the greatest amusement seasons in the history of the park, according to Oscar Mills, secretary and general manager.

A feature of the Sunday afternoon program was vocal selections by Miss Nora Allen, well known lyric soprano and popular radio star. She sang "Somewhere a Voice Is Calling" as the opening number and made such a hit with the crowd that she was called upon for an encore. She followed a few minutes later with "Sunshine," one of Irving Berlin's latest song hits.

The band concert was under the direction of Cal Barber, well known band master, assisted by a capable corps of veteran musicians. Included in the program was "Ice Cream," a fox trot; "I Just Roll Along," fox trot; "Silver Sails," a waltz, and several other popular numbers.

Soon after the concert was over hundreds of visitors jammed the midways and enjoyed the many amusement features and rides. Hundreds of young folks gathered around the merry-go-round.

Fair officials seemed much pleased with the opening day crowd Saturday and the unusually large number present Sunday afternoon, despite low hanging clouds. They stated that the park will be open every day at 1 o'clock and remain open until 11 o'clock each night throughout the season.

"Our purpose this year is to offer to Atlantans the most complete ensemble of entertainment features possible. We wish to offer clean, wholesome recreation for the entire family and make the park a 'family recreation resort,'" Mr. Mills stated Sunday.

REVIVAL PLANNED FOR TABERNACLE BEGINNING MAY 13

With 37 additions to the church Sunday, the Rev. Will H. Houghton, pastor of the Baptist Tabernacle, Sunday night declared he felt "God was leading the church into a revival" and he announced that a two weeks' meeting would be begun on Mother's day, May 13.

Of the 37 new members, 22 joined by confession of faith, and the Rev. Houghton declared that the time was ripe for a great harvest of souls throughout the city. The revival meetings will be conducted by the Rev. Mr. Houghton and will take place each night of the two weeks.

Alexander Kaminsky, imperial Russian violinist, played at both morning and night services of the church and Sunday night the last of a series of "living songs" was presented.

ATLANTA'S BUSINESS ROMANCE.

Atlanta will entertain within her borders today Eugene P. Thomas, vice president of the United States Steel corporation, a native-born Atlantan, whose success has made of him an internationally important figure. He exemplifies the fact that the south produces ordinary men to achieve ordinary things in an extraordinary manner, as Mr. Thomas began when but a boy at the bottom of the ladder and through determination and application has reached a goal very few people accomplish at his age, as he is only 46 years old.

After graduating from the Boys' High school he read an advertisement in "The Constitution" where an office boy was needed in the Lorraine Steel company's office, and that applicants should apply at 11 o'clock the next morning.

At precisely that hour a handsome, slender, ruddy-faced boy, not yet reaching his majority, walked into the manager's presence and was engaged for the job at $5 per week. During the years he went to school and lived in Atlanta he made his home with his brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Courtland S. Winn, the angel of death having borne his sainted mother to her heavenly abode several years before he left this city.

Remarkable judgment displayed by young Mr. Thomas, and a natural aptitude for business, directed the attention of the officers of the Lorraine Steel company upon him, and he was ordered to sail for London as co-manager for the English office.

He left behind in Georgia a beautiful sweetheart, the romance of his heart entwined in his affection for Miss Helen Ramspeck, of Decatur, and he returned to wed her in the springtime of their youth, sailing for the second time for London to assume entire charge of the office.

The picture changes once again, and the spotlight turns upon Mr. Thomas as assistant to Charles J. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Products company, now the active head of the United States Steel corporation, of which Eugene P. Thomas is one of two vice presidents.

He has written a vital page in the history of the nation as well as Georgia, and his career is one of continued triumph, tempered with kindness, tact, and charitable understanding of his fellowman.

The lad who received his education in the public schools of Atlanta arrives today on his palatial private car, looked upon as one of the leading financiers of a mighty republic.

ANGLO-AMERICAN ALLIANCE.
Cooperation rather than competition is a vital necessity. It has been peculiarly demonstrated in the organization of the Finance Company of Great Britain and America. It is a combination of interests in two great countries, directed by men of highest rank in industry and banking.

Sir Alfred Mond is chairman of the new company. He is one of the chief British exponents of "Empire Consciousness." His announcement follows in part:

"There is no limit to the nature of the enterprise. We shall take up any undertaking we think worth while in any part of the world. . . . The possibilities are extremely great, and we shall be able to float almost unlimited sums in the organization of industry throughout the world. It might be said that industry and commerce never had such vast backing."

of Anglo-American community interest. The British empire is America's best customer, buying last year more than $2,000,000,000 of our goods. American investments in British territories amount to approximately $4,000,000,000. Financial cooperation is wise, and it appears to be well on the way. Certainly the two great empires cannot afford to be economic rivals.

TASTE AS A TREASURE.

In civilized nations there is such a character-attribute as taste. It is a commonality of appreciation for the things that dignify and beautify the life of the people. It relates itself to nature, art, philosophy, literature and the conventions of social intercourse. It is a substance that is actually undefinable and yet so evident as to be impressive and inescapable.

In fact, a nation's taste qualifies its civilization and index-fingers its future.

France, as an instance, has been for centuries famous as a nation distinguished for taste, although the quality of French taste has covered a wide arc from the most exquisite forms to the most execrable. Nevertheless, there has been notable artistry in the more abominable modes of expressing French taste.

England once was proud of the quality of her national taste, and a superb essay by a great philosopher and critic was written to describe the fashions and implications of British taste. That essay is still classic and the theorems of it are yet teachable principles.

But France, and England, and Italy, and Germany, as exemplars of the higher reaches and regimes of clean and civilizing taste have all degenerated in recent times and none of them is an arbiter of elegant taste now.

Our America never has had any common psychology of taste. Our origins were too mixed to accomplish an early stabilization of a national taste. Our subsequent accretions of heterogeneous immigrants and the continental expansion of our industrial and social civilization have both been obstructive to the development of a national mental and spiritual taste complex.

The consequence is that we have a nation now that leads the world in material things and tail-ends it in the cultural quality of taste.

Our worth-while artists are few and little esteemed; our popular literature is low in philosophic and spiritual values, frivolous and offensive to refined minds; our addictions to social forms, to sport and to slummy amusements and recreations are in notorious "bad taste," so that it is no wonder that sedate and sensitive observers still see us as a "wild and woolly" people.

There is a broad and open field in our country for schools, colleges, universities and pulpits to teach and preach the principles of a national taste that will include high ideals of life, morality and decency of behavior, and the purer things in art, literature and religion. They are the trefoil of a true national taste.

A noted jurist of Chicago declares that 350,000 men in the United States make their living by criminal practices. And about the same number of lawyers by practicing for criminals.

Germany has come across!

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASEN

Praise From Sir Hubert.

It comes as a surprise to learn from Panait Istrati, the Rumanian author, that in Soviet Russia, a land generally considered to be stagnating culturally, more than 600 papers appear in Esperanto and that the number of books published in the past year top the enormous outputs of the United States and Germany. On the other hand, a Japanese aristocrat, Viscount Goto, one of the die-hard conservatives in his own country, who was ambassador to Russia at the time of the outbreak of the Russo-Japanese war, tells the Tokyo Journalists after a visit to Russia: "I am simply astonished at the energy and the activity of the soviet statesmen, who have been able to accomplish a truly important work. I am familiar with European countries, and I can say that in other countries one finds nothing to compare with the soviet hospitals, sanatoria, prisons and other social institutions. How the authorities have been able to overcome the tremendous obstacles in so short a time is something that the world ought to know." If this man were a young red agitator his words might be without value, but when it is a conservative of conservatives, a Japanese nobleman, it is a case of "praise from Sir Hubert being praise indeed."

Josephine In Vienna.

There was once a French poet who habitually took lunch directly under the Eiffel tower in Paris. His friends asked him why he chose such a spot. "It's the only place in Paris where you can't see the cursed tower," he replied. Vienna can match the story, according to a dispatch to the Paris Times. They there say that the name of the Johann Strauss theater is so crowded every night is that Josephine Baker's "Black and White Revue" is being given there, and that is the same Josephine in Vienna, where the face, form and fame of Josephine Baker are not poured into one's ears and eyes. Josephine is on the stage only a few minutes and one may remain in the theater two hours without seeing her. If Josephine Baker caused a sensation in Paris, she is almost causing riots in Vienna. She has been preached against, shouted against, fought against. And naturally everyone goes to see this negro girl who is the talk of the town. It is the best publicity she ever had or is likely to have. Josephine has an ostrich in her revue and a week or so ago she was seen riding the bird from the top of the tower. She is a light, high-wheeled bug. That spectacle drew a crowd and stopped traffic until the police intervened. Finally she had a passing motor truck driver to take her to the theater.

"American Joan of Arc."

Probably no historical personage has been made the central figure of so many plays as Joan of Arc. During the five centuries which have elapsed since her death, hundreds of playwrights have been tempted by her miraculous and tragic career to make as many foreign authors as French. It was Shakespeare who in Henry the Fourth predicted that the same Joan, under the title of "The Great-Hearted Virgin," Porche has produced a tragedy which fully commensurate with the career of the saint. Under the title of "The American Joan of Arc," the play from this point of view is naturally a masterpiece of historical fiction. Many doubt if Porche's Joan resembles the real Maid of Orleans. Odds & Ends of City Life

BY BILL SHIPPER

Suppose you were the rejected lover who got advised to lean on the bars?

Yet your sense of propriety, solidified by years of decorous living, rebels at a course so precipitous.

You stumble blindly through midnight streets, your reflection on the pavement, established through years of singing in the choir, unimpaired by regular attendance upon Wednesday prayer services.

But notwithstanding every restraint, each fiber of your being urges you to deeds, rash, headlong, foolhardy.

No, your soul torn between conflicting emotions, comes at last the dawn, bringing a fresh burst of inspiration—a mighty resolve to fling caution to the winds and drown it all in rum.

You are a madman, madly rushing into an iniquitous den kept by a loose-legged, a port of lost souls—crying aloud for whisky—whisky!

The reconstruction this time is "Sorry, Old Man, we just sold out."

What would your reflex be?

The absent-minded fellow who took on a few colonies at Childs the other day had a tiff time explaining why he tipped the waitress with the latch-key and walked out with the check carefully salted down in his bill-fold.

That is one road to the police station, Watson, my man.

If the elevator operators in the department stores could set their spools to music life would be made easy for them.

Fancy being required to enumerate a list of articles beginning with the vacuum cleaner and ending with the kitchen stove every time the elevator rises, or falls, but a single floor.

The only jobs which demand such vocal power are held by rubber-tube men, automobile salesmen, members of congress and after-dinner speakers. . . . Oh, yes, you would mention that.

A rounder downtown Saturday night found a clam in a bowl of chowder. If you think that is no mean achievement, go ahead and match it!

Should all the clams consumed locally be placed one on top of the other, they would not tower above the Candler building, whatever may be the contrary.

Perhaps when Atlanta gets its seaport this deplorable condition will be remedied.

Just in Passing

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON.

Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York, has said that under no consideration would he accept the democratic nomination for the presidency at Houston through the abrogation of the three-thirds rule.

Of course not! Take him or leave him, he is too good a man, too loyal a democrat, too great a sportsman, for that!

A nomination secured in the 1928 convention by the abrogation of the rule that has for generations guided the party nominations, as applicable to the convention of date, would be more of a dishonor than an honor.

I heartily approve the abrogation of the old rule provided—and provided only, it is coupled with the abrogation also of the unit rule—but such a change, if ordered, must be made at one convention, as applicable to the next convention, or four years ahead.

The acquittal of Sinclair! After the circuit court of appeals and the United States supreme court had both declared the Teapot Dome naval oil lease to have been shrouded in the basest degree of corruption!

Whether are we drifting? Of course it was the testimony of Thompson, who declared that former Secretary Denby had advanced the idea that a lease should be made to avoid private drainage of the government's oil pockets, that did the work.

But what of that? What of the great sum of money that was transferred to Fall in the mysterious, but never mythical, leather satchel?

What of the transfer of the sacred rights of the navy department to a different and entirely incoordinated branch of government?

The force of fabulous wealth! That is not an implication that the jury was tampered with. It acted on the facts as disclosed in evidence.

It probably, under the peculiarities of laws made for defendants, could not, possibly, have brought in any other verdict.

But the miscarriage of justice in this country is by no means a joke!

Dr. John E. White, pastor of the First Baptist church in Savannah, is back in Atlanta for a two weeks' revival at the Gordon Street Baptist.

Good man and fine pulpit orator, is John!

He was pastor of the Second Baptist in this city for years, and has hosts of close friends who will warmly greet him.

Colonel Fred Paxton is one of them. There has long existed a close friendship between them—almost if not entirely as close as that which exists between Colonel Paxton and Atlanta's perpetual president of the Presidents' club, Colonel Mel Wilkison.

John White and I were in college together. Fact is, we were members of the same class.

He was a great orator even as a college boy. He wasn't quite as religious, perhaps, then as he is now.

He used to steal away from his books and visit my room after I had made a "scouting trip" to Raleigh.

But time has brought changes. The western slope of the hill is not so adventurous as the eastern climb.

There is no sweeter character, no more charming personality, nor more devout Christian, than Rev. Dr. John E. White.

It will be a great week at Columbus! That prosperous old city is a century old—and she is proud of it, and is going to put on her best "bitch and tuck" this week in order to fittingly celebrate the anniversary.

All of the citizens—even a great contingent of colored citizens—will take part in the festivities.

And that is a thing to do! Columbus is a great city—a great city of industry and of accomplishment. It is a center of economic progressiveness. It is a center of education and culture.

The program will be spectacular and impressive. And thousands of people will pour into her gates from all sections of Georgia and Alabama. They will be properly entertained, for Columbus knows hospitality.

The city has two great daily newspapers—The Enquirer Sun, morning, and The Ledger, afternoon. They live together in peace and harmony, as newspaper should. They collaborated in an immense joint Centennial edition.

May Columbus grow as never before in the years to come!

Why shouldn't Atlanta have a "clean-up, paint-up, wash-up, plant-up."

A Cherry Tree as Salesman

BY FRED C. KELLY

Nobody would buy a house just because it had a little cherry tree in the back yard, would he?

But a cherry tree might be sufficient decoy to get a purchaser interested.

I know I had a house for sale. I advertised it and people came to look, but there were so many other houses in the neighborhood, most like it that nobody bought. The night he told a dinner guest about his difficulty. The guest chanced to be a person endowed with imagination and consequently was able to stir imagination in others. He stroled about his friend's little yard, and noticed a poor little cherry tree not much larger than a green bay tree, such as one used to see out in front of the family entrance to a tavern.

The tree gave him an idea. He framed up an advertisement in which he dwelt on the tree more than on the house itself. He urged people to live in the suburbs and pick cherries.

No other advertisement in the paper that day contained anything to make people think of cherries, they had been told that nobody bought.

Of the cherry tree's mother used to make.

Several persons came to look at the house. And one man promptly bought it.

He did not buy it because of the cherry tree—it was not capable, of producing the filling for more than one pie per season—but simply because it had a cherry tree in the back yard.

Had set him thinking of two advantages of a little yard as compared with a bare balcony and a zero-tenure of men and into the back floor suite in an apartment house.

When he looked at the property he found the location, construction, and price all right, and the cherry tree was entirely lost sight of. Yet, except for the writer of the advertisement knowing that the cherry tree would stir somebody's imagination, the house might have remained unsold.

Then there is imagination of an entirely different sort. The manager of a certain retail business sent a bill to a man who for a year or two had failed to settle his account. The bill, as made out, was for $43.18. In a day or two the man owing the bill wrote a letter protesting against the amount. "All I owe," said he, "is $18. This bill for $43.18 is preposterous. I am willing to pay what I owe, but I'll never pay any more."

The man was right: $18 was all he owed. And the store manager knew it. But he had sent him statement after statement without getting any response. So he was obliged to use his imagination and take measures which would give the man a bill.

Health Talks BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

TOO MUCH CHATTER ABOUT TOO MUCH SPATTER.

The health commissioner of New York city recently announced that respiratory infections were at their lowest prevalence. Commenting on this good news a metropolitan editor remarked that the health commissioner coupled the announcement with "the timely injunction not to take this reason to avoid taking the necessary precautions to check incipient colds."

As the health commissioner is an ardent proponent of wet feet as a factor, the "necessary precautions" probably meant wearing one's rubbers and keeping one's chest protector on, these treacherous spring days.

The old-fashioned measures of isolation and quarantine are still effective in preventing the spread of colds of all forms. However, the people almost unanimously would resent an official quarantine of cases of colds; only a health commissioner's isolation of colds; even the campaign to "cover coughs and sneezes" has had little effect on the public.

This medical journal editor is right about it. But why this pessimism? Well, maybe you can get a clue from another quotation from the same editorial.

"The people are surfeited with commonplace advice to keep the feet dry and avoid draughts."

Far it from me to inject personalities into the discussion, as the New York health commissioner said I did at our last encounter, but may I not fairly ask what the health commissioner's attitude on wet feet is really?

Of course the people will resent any official quarantine of "colds" as long as the health authorities assure them that some "colds" are not infectious.

The health authorities take no such pessimistic and inconsistent attitude in reference to the prevention of diphtheria or smallpox, although certain people do vigorously resent being quarantined or isolated with such disease.

The health authorities betray a certain health commissioner's attitude of pessimism, thanks to their obstinacy, old fogeyism and dogmatism. They have incautiously committed themselves on the wrong side of a question as everybody can now see, and they prefer to let the drift drift on, pass the buck to the public, and avoid the responsibility of their own mistake.

I urge the reader to remember this when his own child comes home from school with a cold, or a cough, or a wheezing cough, diphtheria, or what not, contracted from some alleged "cold" the health authorities admit is not infectious.

When some fastidious health officer has the temerity to "warn the public," against wet feet, draughts and insufficient clothing.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Girls Should Mind the Paint.

Two girls work in the office of a painter, and came to my attention in the room back of the office all the time. We necessarily inhale the odors of the paint, and I can't but think of the danger to their health.

The points include enamel, shell, turpentine, benzine, varnish, shellac and white lead. (Miss E. C.)

Answer—Inhalation of turpentine, benzine and alcohol or wool alcohol (shellac) is harmful to health. The employer should provide proper ventilation to carry away the fumes.

This is "better homes" week. Let us observe it in the spirit of its inception!

The week is set aside to be devoted to plans for bettering the home life of the residents of Georgia through the closer knitting of family ties and by means of more careful study of information available for home improvement.

The Christian home makes trust-worthy, dependable children. Upon their shoulders the future of the republic must rest.

How essential it is that the boys of today shall be worthy of leadership tomorrow—that the daughters of today shall be the worthy, Christian mothers of tomorrow!

No charity in Georgia has a stronger appeal to me than that of the proposed tubercular children's hospital at Alto.

It is a state institution, but the state does not give it the support it deserves and must have. It has not provided for a children's unit although 90 per cent of the cases of tuberculosis are contracted in childhood.

Dr. Dimmock's letter, addressed to the people of Georgia through The Constitution Sunday, declares that this new building, giving a means to overcome the disease among children before it has time to break down their physical resistance and also before they have time to spread it among other children, will do more to stamp out the white plague than any other factor.

Let's rally behind the great cause!

Sermons to Live By BY ELAM FRANKLIN DEMBSEY.

Text: "Your labor is not in vain in the Lord."—1 Cor. 15:58.

"In vain" is one of the key expressions in this famous chapter on the Resurrection.

The master thinker, writer, apostle—Paul—reminds the Corinthians that, without certainty as to our resurrection, our faith is vain.

What if the life which is not in vain, which is alone worth while? The answer is here plainly given: The only worth while life is the life which is lived in the power of the resurrection.

Nor is this life one of dreamy mysticism, reverie, "peace of mind" and a sense of well-being, but a life of action—faith that "works" by love.

It has closed enough in its retirement for close communion with God, when its subject goes back into society he may carry love's wise ministry to everyone he touches.

Exhausted in such service, the Christian yearns for quiet retirement where he may rest with his Lord, receive fresh supplies of strength from Him, and have life's tangled skein knotted and woven into the ordered fabric of His wise plans for us and for those whom we serve.

But after that retirement has done its restorative work, his "wrestling" begins to drive him forth into the presence of men and into the thick of things once more, for he may do his Father's clearly revealed will in holy, wise and fruitful service to his fellows.

Thanks Constitution For Cooperation Shown

Editor Constitution: I wish to thank you and your splendid paper for the cooperation shown the Georgia Education association and me personally during the recent convention held here.

I am sure that you feel as I do, that education is the biggest business of any country or state and that anything that is done for the betterment of educational conditions in our county or state should be given every consideration and help. This you have done and done well.

Just How Much Should a Citizen Tell the Law?

By Robert Quillen

The man in the smoker who occupied the seat near the window lighted an expensive cigar and began to hold forth on the law.

"It all goes back to early times," said he, "when the king was the law and everybody hated the king. The people and the law were enemies. When one of the people did something against the law, almost everybody sympathized with him. They helped him to hide. And the fellow who told the police anything was considered a traitor."

"That feeling lasted so long it became a kind of instinct. It was bred in the bone. And you'll notice even today the people have a kind of sneakin' sympathy for a bandit the police are after."

"And they still feel that way about informers. Children in school hate the one that tells the teacher everything, and at home they despise the one that's forever threatening to tell mamma."

"It's just our nature to hate a tattletale. You'll notice since prohibition came in how everybody hates the kind of man who tells the police everything he knows."

"The fellow in my neighborhood who is forever smelling home brew. You couldn't carry a quart past his house in a moving van without his suspecting it and notifying the police. The dirty, spyin', snoopin', tattletale informer!"

He resumed his cigar and the talk became general. After a while it turned on political scandal and dishonesty in high places.

"We mustn't get too excited," said a little gray man who smoked a pipe. "A few fellows were dishonest. They were just a few. They're just as good as square as the rest of us. They may have suspected something was wrong, but their hands are clean."

"Clean like a sewer," growled the man at the window. "They ought to be kicked out of office—the last one of 'em. If they knew what was going on and didn't report it, they're just as guilty as the men who did the stealing."

OUR CAPITAL PERISCOPE

Sam W. Small

Other presidential aspirants may have tucked their heads under the wing of Governor of Illinois, Frank Lowden, has a big farm tractor with a multiple engine that is hitting on all cylinders. It developed in an early last week and is now pressing strongly for front place in the republican race.

Lowden is a most attractive person. Though not in any official station now, he has held public offices longer than any other of the thirty men who have been "mentioned" in both parties as eligible to their presidential nominations. He has occupied five prominent public posts, including that of governor of his state, and his pay-roll in those positions has totaled $83,000. Next to him are Senators Curtis and Reed, who have drawn public pay for 36 years each; then comes Governor of Ohio, with 25 years and still drawing strong as one of the governments Fall-Sinclair prosecutors.

Lowden is aggressively rich and has a reputation for business acumen. For the paltry salary of $75,000 a year, a government yacht and a

Only Five Days Left Before State Finals In Oratorical Meet

State Capitol To Be Scene of Newspaper Finals Friday Afternoon at 3 O'Clock.

Counting Monday, only five days remain before the final scene is enacted which will decide which of Georgia's thus far successful high school girls and boys from the twelve congressional districts shall stand out as the winner of the state contest in the fifth national oratorical contest being sponsored in this state by The Atlanta Constitution.

On next Friday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, Atlanta time, the winners of the district finals will assemble at the state capitol in a hall which has been set aside by Governor L. G. Hardman for the oratorical state finals, and in the presence of the governor, who has consented to act as one of the judges, strive for state-wide supremacy in declamation.

The names of other judges who are being considered to act in the state finals Friday will be made public later. For the benefit of those interested or participating in the contest, which will result in one of the many district finalists going to Raleigh, N. C., next month for the zone finals, and possibly to Washington May 29, of the national finals, a recapitulation of the rules for the judging is deemed necessary.

As previously stated during the contest the system of judging will be that of the "low-point total." That is to say, the judges are to make out their ballots (the standard ballot will be found on the next to the last page of the blue book of rules issued to contestants) without consultation, and the contestant having the lowest total is to be declared the winner.

The director of the national contest has ruled that it is imperative to invoke the "low-point total" system of judging. These rules provide that in the event of a tie between two contestants for first place in the ballots of the judges, and one of the two tied contestants has first place from a majority of the judges, the one having first place from a majority shall automatically become the winner, and it will not be necessary to submit the matter to the judges for consultation.

In Case of Tie.
In case there is a tie for first place and a tie for second place, and no contestant has received first place from a majority of the judges, then the judges shall go into consultation to select the winner from among those four tied for first and for second place.

If three or more contestants are tied for first place, and no one of them has received first place from a majority of the judges, then the judges shall go into consultation to select the winner from the three or more contestants tied for first place. All the foregoing specifications are contained in the blue book of rules, a copy of which should be studied by the district winners who are to participate in the newspaper, or state finals. These rules will hold during the zone and national finals. Director Randolph Leigh, of Washington, has announced.

Points which the judges will consider in arriving at their preference number only three and are as follows:

1. The fitness of a contestant to make a worthy showing in the highest stages of the contest—character, poise and personality to be the criterion.

2. The composition of the oration, with particular emphasis on historical accuracy, logic and general literary effectiveness.

3. Moving power—the extent to which the speaker can thrill, quicken and compel.

As the time draws nigh, it is recalled that request has been made by the director of the national contest that all boys participating in state, zone and national finals wear tuxedos. This will not be necessary in the state finals at the state capitol next Friday, the hour of the contest making it inappropriate to affect such attire.

Those contestants who have survived their respective district finals are cautioned to be "on their toes" as to the date and time of the state finals. As a last word, they will be held in Atlanta. The date will be April 27, the day will be Friday, and the time has been inexorably set at 3 o'clock central standard, or Atlanta time.

GEORGIA TORNADO HITS TWO TOWNS

Vienna, Ga., April 22.—(P)—Two residences, a barn and several out-houses and small sheds were destroyed, and a number of large trees were uprooted on the outskirts of Vienna this morning in a tornado which inflicted damage estimated at $5,000. No one is known to have been injured.

The two dwellings, both small, which were demolished, were unoccupied. They were owned by Ray and Glenn Patterson. The two Patterson families were away from their homes at the time of the tornado. The barn which was wrecked was located in the rear of the Wade Lassiter place, northeast of Vienna and approximately one mile from the city limits.

Both the barn and its contents, which included an automobile and farming implements, are a total loss. The damage is estimated at between $2,000 and $3,000. Mr. Lassiter, the owner, resides in Fitzgerald, and the place is occupied by the Hardgree family.

The shacks which were destroyed were located some distance from this city. It is understood that they were unoccupied at the time.

The tornado made its appearance from the southeast. It covered a path of approximately 100 feet. It was impossible to estimate the velocity of the wind. The disturbance struck the Vienna section at 10 o'clock, and was followed by a heavy rain.

TORNADO STRIKES HAWKINSVILLE

Hawkinsville, Ga., April 22.—(P)—Several large trees were uprooted here today in a small tornado which for a time appeared serious. The disturbance struck this section about 10:30 o'clock this morning. No damage, other than to some of the streets here, which were made impassable by fallen trees, was reported at a late hour tonight. The tornado was followed by a heavy rain.

3 Pedestrians' Legs Broken During Auto Mishaps in Savannah

Savannah, Ga., April 22.—(P)—Three pedestrians sustained broken legs as a result of automobile accidents here over the week end. L. H. Leneham had both legs broken when pinned between an automobile and a tree, and J. H. Fisher and Nick Simon, six years old, each had a leg broken when struck by an automobile.

NEGRO PUBLISHER TO VISIT RACE HERE

H. S. Barnes, colored, editor and publisher of the "Sunday School Worker" of Macon, organ of the colored Baptist missionary field in Georgia, will visit negro schools and churches in Atlanta today in the interest of racial work.

Courthouse Repairs.

Thomasville, Ga., April 22.—Various improvements are contemplated in the Thomas county courthouse. These improvements will provide additional floor space in the main building and installation of modern steam-heating apparatus for the entire building, to be set up in the basement.

Additional space and shelf room for records in the offices of the receiver of taxes and the judge of the court of ordinary are also being planned for.

BLACK HILLS PASTOR SPEAKS AT WAYCROSS

Waycross, Ga., April 22.—(P)—L. L. L., the nationally known young pastor of the church attended by President and Mrs. Coolidge last summer, was guest of honor at a banquet at the Phoenix hotel Friday night. In response to a toast by C. C. Shedd, secretary of the Railroad Y. M. C. A., Mr. Lium made an able address on the advantages of a college training. He emphasized that four years of college life meant far more than the content gained from studies and that much of that which fitted the college man for fuller living came from extra-curricular activities.

THE DUMB BOYS SHAKE MEAN FEET, FLAPPER OPINES

Birmingham, Ala., April 22.—(United News.)—The dumber a fellow is the better he can dance, thinks Miss Helen Crain, who recently was chosen the "college flapper" by students of Birmingham-Southern college. "If my date is dumb we go to a dance," she said. "If he is less dumb we go to a show, but if he is real bright and well read we stay at home and have our date."

To Ship Beans.

Thomasville, Ga., April 22.—Shipments of beans are about to get under way from Thomas county, most of them going out from Boston, in the eastern section of the county and recognized center of the bean-growing industry here. Reports of the acreage for 1928 indicate 1,600 acres planted in the county this year. When the bean shipments strike their stride the express company finds it necessary to put on extra cars to handle the packages tendered, and the railroads handle quite a number of shipments in solid carload lots.

Frigidaire is economical in the use of current

Low operating cost is a source of constant satisfaction to Frigidaire users. This is one factor of tremendous interest to stores, factories and other large users of automatic refrigeration. And in this field Frigidaire is the choice of an overwhelming majority. In judging an automatic refrigerator, current consumption should be given careful consideration.

The combination of many factors have made Frigidaire the choice of more buyers than all other electric refrigerators combined

Frigidaire is the powerful automatic refrigerator

Every Frigidaire, of whatever size, is equipped with a cooling unit powerful enough, sturdy enough, and big enough to keep food cold and freeze ice quickly, at all times, and under all conditions. This means dependability, especially when outside temperatures are excessively high and you need refrigeration most.

Frigidaire is quiet

Constant improvement and refinement have made the new Frigidaire unbelievably quiet. A few feet away the hushed purr of its efficient motor is almost inaudible. Not only that, but it stays quiet, even after long service. In achieving quiet operation Frigidaire engineers have not lessened the power nor resorted to methods which would reduce the dependability or accessibility of any mechanical parts.

Frigidaire is adaptable to every home and every commercial use

Frigidaire is flexible in design. The compressor and cooling coil are separate units. This means that the compressor can be placed wherever most convenient to the user, and where it will give greatest efficiency. In the Frigidaire line there are 12 types and sizes of compressors. There are 49 sizes of cooling coils. There are 22 models of household cabinets, 10 sizes and types of ice cream cabinets and 6 sizes of water coolers. Electric motors in 119 different powers, voltages and frequencies are supplied. The Frigidaire line is complete in order that every user may have equipment that will fit his requirements most economically and efficiently.

Frigidaire household cabinets are artistically beautiful

Frigidaire's mechanical superiority is matched by the design of its cabinets. Beauty of line, proportion, finish and coloring combine to make Frigidaires strikingly beautiful. The fact that in household models all mechanical parts are completely enclosed, that the smooth, gleaming exterior surface is as easily cleaned as a china plate, that there is nothing to catch dust, grease or dirt, is thoroughly appreciated by any woman. Frigidaire's beauty and clean appearance is one of the great factors in making it the choice of home owners. Today Frigidaire is offered in Tu-Tone porcelain-enameled models, fitted with beautifully etched, satin-finish hardware of new design. Other models are offered in Duco. All fit perfectly into the decorative scheme of the modern kitchen.

Frigidaire food shelves are at a convenient, comfortable height

Frigidaire household cabinets are not only beautiful, but practical. The arrangement of food shelves is practical—even the lowest shelf is sufficiently elevated from the floor to eliminate the necessity of extreme stooping. Frigidaire is designed to make housework easier and less fatiguing—a point that should be seriously considered in the purchase of an automatic refrigerator.

Frigidaire is a Product of General Motors

The absolute satisfaction of Frigidaire users is guaranteed by General Motors, the world's largest manufacturer of fine mechanical products. And the fact that Frigidaire has a sales, installation and service organization of more than twelve thousand men, that it has already achieved a success that insures permanence, makes your investment in a Frigidaire automatic refrigerator safe.

Frigidaire is low in price

Frigidaire offers the outstanding values today in automatic refrigerators. With all the advantages it offers in mechanical construction, in dependability, in surplus power, in proven performance, the price is surprisingly low. The tremendous production and the buying power of General Motors have made Frigidaire prices possible. A careful analysis of value based on those factors that are of vital importance in buying an automatic refrigerator have led more than half a million buyers to choose Frigidaire—more than have bought all other makes of electric refrigerators combined.

The Air Waves.

BY THE DIAL TWISTER.

A friend of the stay-at-home Sunday afternoon radio listener is gone. The Acousticon program which has been an enjoyable Sunday feature every week at 4:30 p. m., offered a farewell "25 years ago" hour, and will not return again until next October. But the last program this spring was among the finest we have heard.

And though, because of local conditions, we only heard the first half of the program, that half was especially enjoyable. Among the stars were Marguerita Solva, internationally famous for her "Carmen," and Will Oakland, known to all lovers of popular music 25 years ago, and even less.

McIntyre and Heath, known the nation over, were others who made this all-star hour one of a kind. "Stoo had this feature is off the air for so many months, isn't it?"

Then just to get something different, we turned to KDKA at 8:15 o'clock Sunday night for the NBC tango orchestra and heard the tangoes from the Argentine, Chile and Cuba. Also had an accordion solo and were told that the accordion is to the tango orchestra what the saxophone is to an American dance band.

And so we leave the past for the future and tonight's programs: Around the Dial: 7:00, ensemble; 7:30, studio. 243.8—WDOD Chattanooga—12:00—6:00, around the Dial; 7:00, ensemble; 7:30, studio. 461.3—KRLD, Dallas—6:00—7:00, Cowboy Crooner; 9:00, music; 11:00, program of music. 545.1—WYAA, Dallas—6:00—6:30, Roy and His Gang; 8:30, General Motors party; 9:30, Time to Retire Boys; 10:00, musical program. 480.7—WHAU, Fort Worth—6:00—8:00, Riverside; 8:00, Sunflower Girl; 10:00, musical program. 490.1—KTHB, Fort Worth—6:00—9:00, Arlington orchestra; 10:00, Harmony Four; 11:00, special music. 202.9—KPHC, Houston—10:00—6:30, NBC program; 7:30, Owl orchestra; 8:30, NBC program. 340.7—WJAX Jacksonville—8:00—6:30, orchestra and assistants; 7:00, studio; 7:30, show; 8:00, orchestra; 8:30, General Motors party; 9:30, Time to Retire Boys; 10:00, musical program. 322.4—WIAS, Louisville—6:00—7:00, American forest week; 7:30, General Motors party; 8:30, Time to Retire Boys; 9:30, Time to Retire Boys; 10:00, musical program. 340.7—WJAX Jacksonville—8:00—6:30, orchestra and assistants; 7:00, studio; 7:30, show; 8:00, orchestra; 8:30, General Motors party; 9:30, Time to Retire Boys; 10:00, musical program.

Do you like hands as well as the Dial Twister does? Probably not, but we like to believe you like 'em a little bit. So it is with pleasure we tell you about the Riverside Trailblazers at 8 o'clock tonight over WSB and other blue network stations. A real band with its brasses in evidence will play "The Tin Pan Parade," Sousa's "Washington Post March" and "Merry Widow Waltz," by Lehman among others. Also the quartet will offer "Sweet Genevieve," "Silver Threads Among the Gold" and "The Spanish Cavalier."

We will skip the A. & P. Gypsies because they are not easy to get unless weather conditions are real good, and turn to the Fisk Time-to-Retire boys who will bring us what promises to be an honest to goodness program at 9:30 o'clock tonight over WSB and other blue chain stations. Among these we will especially listen for are "Meditation" from "Thais," as a violin solo, "Blue Bird, Sing Me a Song," vocal duet, and "Here Comes the Show Boat," by the orchestra.

Then over the Columbia system, the Spur Tie hour at 8 o'clock through KMOX, WAU, KOIL or other Columbia stations will bring "Here in My Arms," the hit from "Dearest Enemy," sung by the boy and the girl, and "Rosita," by the girl, among others.

But of special interest, if KMOX or WAU are coming in well, will be the concert orchestra hour at 8:30 o'clock when Don Voorhees will lead his men in a Columbia system program which will include "To a Mountain," "Within the Walls of China," "Song of the Spirits of the Nile," "Gondolier's Love Song" and others just as interesting. We just suspect that this program is going to equal any broadcast in a long time and make most of them hang their heads in shame.

Music Lovers Will Surrender To L'Africaine

Atlanta music lovers will completely surrender Monday evening under the magic spell of Meyerbeer's lyrical, tuneful and spectacular opera, "L'Africaine," opening the season of 1928 and inaugurating the eighteenth year the Metropolitan artists have sung here before the thousands of appreciative listeners. Meyerbeer's music shows the French influence and "L'Africaine" is particularly expressive of that school, and with such a cast of notable principals as Rosa Ponselle, Beniamino Gigli and others its presentation is one of assured success, with the most divine music floating to the highest rafters of the auditorium.

Highly polished motors will deposit handsomely gowned women at the entrance of the temple of music long before the clock strikes 8 to witness Sarafin, the conductor, life his baton, bringing into perfect harmony the instruments in the orchestra. When the opera is over, close on to the midnight hour, automobiles will call for these previous passengers and whirl them to festive social affairs scheduled to last well into the morning hours.

"L'Africaine" opens with Vasco's return to Portugal from India, accompanied by two slaves, Selika and Nelusko, as proof of his discoveries. Selika falls in love with the explorer; Nelusko has fallen in love with Selika, and Don Pedro, president of the Portuguese royal council, has fallen in love with Vasco's sweetheart, Inez. Such an ill-assorted arrangement naturally leads to complications.

Don Pedro casts Vasco and his slaves in prison, claiming both Inez and the explorer's charts for himself. Inez agrees to marry Pedro if Vasco is released, but when she goes to prison to release her sweetheart, she finds him in Selika's arms. While Vasco is explaining, Pedro takes his slaves and his maps and sails to find India himself. Vasco and Inez go in pursuit, and the lovers' characters finally reach India, where Selika, recognized as a princess, disposes of Pedro. She saves Vasco, but even this does not win his love from Inez, so Selika generously sends them back to Portugal and poisons herself with the fumes of the blossoms of the deadly mananilla tree. Nelusko follows her grim example.

THREE SOCIETIES MEET ON BIRTHDAY

Assembling at St. Anthony church, Gordon street, West End, on Sunday morning, the St. Vincent de Paul society of the Immaculate Conception church, Sacred Heart parish and St. Anthony church celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the organization in Atlanta.

Receiving holy communion in a body, the three societies partook of breakfast immediately after the services. The occasion, which more than fifty members attended, was made the more interesting by the attendance of four of the charter members who organized the society in 1903. Among other speakers were four who gave a picturesque description of the work accomplished in the past quarter century.

SPANISH AVIATOR IS IN NEW YORK

New York, April 22.—(AP)—In preparation for his contemplated round-the-world flight from Spain next August, Captain Julio Rius de Aida, Spanish aviator who flew from Seville to Buenos Aires in 1926, arrived today aboard the Royal Spanish Mail liner Manuel Anus.

The aviator said he would make arrangements for supply bases for his contemplated trip while in the United States and seek meteorological data.

He was met by Major Victoriano Casajus, Spanish military attaché at Washington, and Commander Adolfo Solas, naval attaché. After several days in New York he said he would go to Washington and hoped to meet Colonel Lindbergh, "if he will come down long enough."

MEETING CALLED TO DISCUSS JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL SITE

Members of the city council, members of the bond commission and members of the board of education as requested by J. E. Bowden, chairman of the committee, from the first and fifth wards, to decide upon the new junior high school site, to meet with the committee at 5 o'clock this afternoon at the English Avenue library.

Chairman Bowden states that he has reached an agreement upon the site can be reached at the meeting today and urges all concerned to be present. Four sites are under consideration, but Chairman Bowden states that he believes a 14 acre strip on Bankhead extending to Bay street, the most likely to be selected.

If an agreement of the site can be reached it is hoped to have council accept it at a called meeting before its next regular meeting, the first Monday in May.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

PETER HEARS ABOUT A GRUNTER.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.
Because a pig's a pig, you know, it doesn't mean that he is slow.
—Scraper the Kingbird.

Peter Rabbit had been having a perfectly wonderful time. You know, he had been seeing through the eyes of Scraper the Kingbird, Black Howler the Monkey, and his family down in the jungle, which Scraper visits every winter. Of course, Peter wasn't really seeing them. He was just using his imagination. Scraper told about them so clearly that to Peter it was almost as good as seeing them.

"Does Black Howler make a great deal of noise?" inquired Peter.
"Sometimes," replied Scraper. "As I have already told you, he is very likely to early in the morning and when it thunders. At other times he may be so still that you would never guess he was about. I have seen hunters looking for him walk right under the tree he was sitting in and not discover him at all. They call him a Howler, but I think he ought to be called a grunter. And he is a pretty good grunter, too. I've heard him grunt when I couldn't tell whether it was Black Howler or Piggy the Pecary."

Up flew Peter's long ears. "That's a new one!" he cried. "What is a Pecary like? I have never heard of anything like that around here."

"No, you never have and you never will," replied Scraper. "But if you lived down in the jungle you would hear a lot about Piggy the Pecary and you would see him pretty often. Have you ever been up to Farmer Brown's barnyard?"

"Yes," replied Peter. "I've been up there many times."

"Have you ever seen a pig he keeps up back of the barn?" inquired Scraper.

"Of course," replied Peter. "I've heard him grunt, too."

"Good!" exclaimed Scraper. "If you have heard him grunt, you know just the kind of noise that Piggy the Pecary makes and that some of the other animals make. And if you have seen Farmer Brown's pig, you have seen a sort of cousin of Piggy the Pecary. You see, Piggy really is a pig. He is a pig who lives in the jungle. He is a pig who lives in the jungle."

"Huh!" exclaimed Peter. "I don't know what you mean."

2 ATLANTA GIRLS

NARROWLY ESCAPE

IN CROSSING CRASH

Covington, Ga., April 22.—(Special.)—Two young women had a miraculous escape from death here late Sunday afternoon when their roadster's brakes failed to stop their car, which crashed into the southbound Central of Georgia afternoon train in the center of the city.

The girls, Miss Martha Foster, daughter of Judge Fred Foster, of Madison, and Miss Cat, were en route from Madison, where they had spent the week-end, to Atlanta, where they are said to reside. At the crossing the brakes failed to stop the car, which crashed into the southbound Central of Georgia afternoon train in the center of the city.

BATTLES IN CHINA

DEplete ARMIES

Shanghai, China, April 22.—(AP)—Wounded from the battlefields of Shantung province are pouring into Tientsin and Peking. The hospitals are filled and every available medical man has been pressed into service.

Various rumors came from the front today, among them reports that Tsai-nan had fallen before the advance of the nationalist forces under Feng Yu-hsiang, formerly known as the Christian general. This report, however, was regarded as premature although it reached here from both Tientsin and Tsingtau foreign legation.

The Tsingtau dispatches said that there have been serious defections among the northern troops massed on the Chihli-Shantung border at Tehchow for the defense of Tientsin. Many of these troops were reported to be deserting to the nationalist armies.

Dispatches from Tientsin related that the nationalists were advancing along the Peking-Hankow railway and were within 25 miles of Paoingfu. This would place them only 100 miles from Peking, the capital prize of the nationalists spring drive.

Ching Tsao-fu, according to these reports, was falling back to a previously prepared line of defense extending from Paoingfu to Tehchow.

On the eastern part of the front the nationalists were reported as pressing forward toward Kaomi on the Tientsin railway 50 miles from Tsingtau. There are Japanese military and naval forces at Tsingtau.

Little new material was expected to be brought out in the state witnesses' testimony. The more important ones of them already have told their stories in habeas corpus hearings.

The state's key witness, William M. Beechey, former detective, who testified he was with Quigg's fellow defendants, Lieutenant M. A. Tibbitts and Detective Tom Nazworth and John Cavell, when the negro was killed after the detective said, he had been taken to the outskirts of the city at Quigg's orders, to be beaten.

At the habeas corpus hearings Beechey declared the chief helped his side make up a false story of the night's doings, disclaiming all knowledge of Kier's death and accounting for a wound suffered by Tibbitts by a shot from a shot from the scene of Kier's death. Nazworth, alleged to have fired the shots that killed the negro, with this story, Beechey said, the bullet striking the lieutenant.

The tug battered a path through the blockade and the patients were rushed ashore. Truison being taken to a hospital at Bayfield, while Mrs. Nelson was brought here by train. She may undergo an operation for gallstones, while Truison has a severe case of influenza, diagnoses revealed.

For three weeks the little island has been all but cut off from the rest of the country, with ice choking the bay, but the condition of the two patients last night required immediate attention, so the islanders, after failing to break through in launches, called on the huge sand tug, which took the two invalids and several others and cut through to land.

Graduation Date.
Waycross, Ga., April 22.—The graduation exercises for the Senior High school of Waycross will be held Friday night, June 1, at the Lyric theater.

A number of Shriners also are planning trips to Havana, for which occasion special rates have been provided, it is said.

YOUNG EPISCOPAL PEOPLE TO MEET AT COLUMBUS, GA.

Waycross, Ga., April 22.—H. H. Burnett, Jr., president of the Georgia Episcopal Young People's league of the Episcopal church, at a meeting of league representatives from Waycross, Brunswick, Jesup and Douglas, held here Sunday, outlined plans for the diocese convention to be held in Columbus May 11, 12 and 13. Indications point to a large representation from leagues of southern Georgia.

The meeting Sunday was held at Grace Episcopal church, of which Rev. C. C. Carpenter is rector.

HEBREW CHRISTIAN ALLIANCE OPENS MEETING MONDAY

The fourteenth annual conference of the Hebrew-Christian alliance will begin at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Baptist tabernacle, to continue through Sunday, with more than 100 delegates slated to be in attendance, as well as hosts of other visitors.

Governor L. G. Hardman and Mayor I. N. Ragsdale will extend addresses of welcome to the conference, and addresses will be made by the Rev. W. W. Memminger, president of the Christian council; the Rev. C. R. Stauffer, president of the Evangelical Ministers' association; and J. D. Manget, chairman of the local committee in charge.

At Grady hospital where he was taken for treatment, Patrolman Morris said the accident was unavoidable and Mathis was released by police without charges being made against him. According to Mathis, Morris signaled for him to stop but due to his brakes not taking immediate hold he was unable to do so before striking the officer.

TRAFFIC OFFICER HURT, EXONERATES DRIVER OF AUTO

While directing traffic at the intersection of Ponce de Leon avenue and Peachtree street, Patrolman W. T. Morris was run into by a car driven by W. A. Mathis, 53 Peachtree Hills avenue, Sunday and slightly injured on his right leg.

STEEL EXECUTIVE, NATIVE ATLANTAN, IN CITY MONDAY

Eugene Peoples Thomas, president of the United States Steel Products company, a native Atlantan, and son of Mrs. L. P. Thomas, of Ansley Park, who recently was elected a vice president of the United States Steel corporation, will pass through Atlanta today in his private car en route to Houston, Texas.

Mr. Thomas will stop over here either a whole or part of today and visit friends and relatives. Mr. Thomas is one of the outstanding figures in the steel world, and has been identified with the industry since 1892, when he entered the offices of the Lorain Steel company, here.

He was connected with the local office for eight years. In 1906 he was made co-manager of the London offices of the company. After four years in London, Mr. Thomas returned to this country to become assistant to the president of the United States Steel Products company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation.

He became president of the company in 1916. In his capacity as president of the United States Steel Products company Mr. Thomas has directed all sales of the steel corporation's constituent companies in foreign countries.

NEW HILL TRIAL FOR MATRICIDE TO BEGIN TODAY

Ottawa, Ill., April 22.—(United News.)—Harry Hill, former Knox college student, charged with the murder of his mother, Eliza Hill, will go on trial the second time Monday. The jury in the first trial was discharged when it failed to agree on a verdict after three days' deliberation.

The body of Mrs. Hill was found buried in a grave in the cemetery of her home in Streator, where she and the accused son had lived. A bullet in the head had caused her death.

JAILED FOR DRIVING AUTO WHILE DRUNK AFTER ACCIDENT

J. C. Kimbo, 30 West Harris street, was locked up last night on charges of being intoxicated while driving an automobile after a smash which virtually demolished both cars involved. Kimbo was driving north on Whitehall street when, at the intersection of Whitehall and Oak streets, he ran into a car driven by Paul T. Becker, of 531 Broyles street, according to reports. Call Officers E. W. Ginn and S. B. McGarity investigated.

FLORIDA OFFICERS FACE TRIAL TODAY

Miami, Fla., April 22.—(AP)—First of three murder trials growing out of the investigations of a grand jury which reported it found "terrifying and damnable" practices customary in the handling of prisoners, presentation of evidence in the case of Police Chief H. "A population of 500,000 by 1932" is Atlanta's slogan. Let's all pull together for a Greater Atlanta.

The Constitution's Weekly Business Review

EDITED BY M. D. GLEASON

There is hardly a need or a want that cannot be filled in Atlanta's stores and factories.

Thoughtful People Remember Graves of Their Loved Ones

It has often been the subject of discussion why it is that so many people in all ranks of life neglect the graves of their loved ones.

Fortunately, however, a great majority of people take pride in the upkeep of their cemetery lot or single graves and make frequent visits to see that these monuments are not neglected.

In song and story the poets have sung the refrain "Will You Think of Me When I Am Gone," and it is a mandate of some of the largest fraternal orders to keep green the graves of the departed brethren.

Families differ in their ideas of the best way of honoring their dead. Some spend more than they really can afford in buying an expensive casket and then there is not enough left to buy even a modest marker to bear testimony as to the man or woman who rests there. Others believe a modest casket to go into the ground, where it will never be seen again, and a suitable tombstone properly inscribed with the name of the family or loved one, to be the best testimony that their loved ones may be long gone but never forgotten.

Fortunately for Georgia people there is a way within their state a superabundance of granite and marble and a tombstone here costs less than if the heavy material was to be shipped in from a long distance. When it comes to converting the rough stone into a finished monument the large dealers in Georgia cannot be beaten for good work.

Atlanta has several excellent marble and monument firms, and one of the busiest at all times is the Enterprise Marble and Granite company, of 475 Marietta street.

This firm carries in its large show

rooms a wide variety of monuments and can deliver a distinctive marker

anywhere in Georgia or adjoining states at very reasonable prices. To

Crackers' Head Home After Losing Last Game to Pels, 8-7

4-Run Rally In Last Frame Beats Atlanta

Niehoffs Hold Lead Until Last Minute Then Lose Out.

New Orleans, April 22.—For eight innings, Dave Danforth, of the Pels, and Tom Rogers, of the Crackers, waged a near pitching battle, though both were hit frequently, but in the ninth inning things happened, plenty of things, and when the smoke of battle cleared the Pels were on the long end of an 8-to-7 count, giving them a clean sweep of the four-game series.

There is only one word to describe that ninth session. It was hectic.

Count Deadlocked.

Going into the final round, the count was deadlocked at four for one. One was out when Rogers started the fireworks with a single to left, singled Danforth to first, and Max West, rode one of Danforth's benders over the left field wall, counting Rogers and Danforth ahead, and apparently, with the smoke of battle cleared the Pels were far from through.

Rogers had been going along nicely, and the Pels looked like a formidable force, even when Danforth started the home ninth with singles. Collins went in to run for Padgett. Evidently, Bert Niehoff thought plenty of the Pels threat, for Rogers was yanked and Leverage, a recently acquired southpaw, went to the mound.

He forced Tucker to pop weakly to Brock, and Pels hopes faded.

But the Crackers presented the Birds with another chance when Gilbert booted Pinch-Hitter Elchrodt's grounder, allowing Gardner to score and leaving two men still on base.

Another pinch-hitter, Akers, singled sharply to left field and Collins scored. Dudley, who had been playing right field, was called to the mound and Blenheim went to the garden.

Blenheim grounded to Rhiel and Elchrodt was forced at third. But again the Crackers were in luck, for Rogers was yanked, ending the ball game, as it was, a 7-7 tie.

Start Scoring Early.

The scoring started right away. The Pels ran in two runs in the first inning when Davis drove in Gardner and Padgett with a single to center.

Padgett doubled to left and scored on a single by Dudley. Rogers' double sent Dudley to third from where he scored. The Pels' lead was 2-0.

Gardner hit a home run in the second, ending the ball game, as it was, a 3-0 lead.

Padgett grounded out to third. Gardner was yanked, ending the ball game, as it was, a 4-0 lead.

Winning Spurts of Leaders Feature Week in Both Leagues.

New York, April 22.—The first full week of the 1925 major league season, which began last Sunday through Saturday, was marked by the winning spurts of Cleveland and Washington in the American league, and the Braves and the Cardinals in the National league.

The New York Giants, bolstered by Andy Cohen at second base, retained the National league lead by winning three games and losing one.

The Braves, who had been in the lead, were ousted by the Cardinals, who won three and lost only one.

KEY-ING SPORTS

BY DICK HAWKINS.

Comedy and Tragedy.

During this week of harmony at the auditorium and inharmonious at home, the Atlanta Crackers' comedy troupe of players will be struggling valiantly but with little prospect of success to break par in their semi-annual golf tournament at Druid Hills.

There will undoubtedly be more of music at the auditorium but of comedy and tragedy the same can be said. The Atlanta Crackers' comedy troupe of players will be struggling valiantly but with little prospect of success to break par in their semi-annual golf tournament at Druid Hills.

We will hasten to say, however, as a matter of protection, that the first two or three flights in the Jaycee tournament invariably produce considerable good golf. Those of us (the term "us" is not editorial but actual in this case) who struggle through the lower flights find more of tragedy than harmony.

But even dark clouds have linings of a different color, according to song and story. In the Jaycee tournament the dub has as much chance to win a prize as the real golfer because the committee always gets enough trophies for winners in all flights and consolation prizes.

Crackers Return Home.

The return of the Crackers likewise introduces an element of comedy and tragedy to Atlanta's sport stage. The tragedy is told in the libretto of league standings and the comedy resulted in those standings. Under ordinary circumstances the opera of the Crackers would be light opera if not a simple farce comedy but there is enough of tragedy in it to make one hesitate about giving vent to his unbridled mirth.

If the Crackers were traditional tail-enders in the league and had started the season with what promised to be a tail-end team, the comedy would be worth laughing at and there would be no earthly reason for doing anything else than laugh. But the Crackers are not tail-enders and they have not started the season with what promised to be a tail-end team.

There are many reasons for this. The Crackers made their first stage appearance and never drew a hand. It was believed by the critics that the old tragedians in the cast would get warmed to their parts with a few performances then Bertramius Niehoffski, the director, was bedridden with the "flu."

This was serious but not necessarily fatal because the director was not playing a part. Then Johnny Jones, one of the lead tenors, was not playing a part. Then Johnny Jones, one of the lead tenors, was not playing a part.

Mobile Makes Debut Today At Spiller's

First of Four-Game Series Slated To Start at 3 O'Clock.

BY BEN COTHMAN.

Nine straight. If this continues the Crackers will be able to set a record for consecutive games lost.

But the suspense is getting to be terrible. One goes along from day to day thinking that "of course Atlanta will win today." But for the past nine days one's mental machinations have been slightly incorrect, and the Crackers haven't cared much to whom they've lost for they've lost to everyone they've played.

Eight of these nine straight losses, however, have been on the road.

Arrive This Morning.

Today, this morning rather, at 8 o'clock, or thereabouts, the team gets off the road for a home stay of something like a month in duration with a couple of one-day excursions to Nashville and Chattanooga.

Mobile will be the visiting club for the first home series. The Crackers, in looking back over the events of the past week, which included four days in Mobile, are cherishing no fond memories. For it was in Mobile that the locals took four straight hard ones right on the chin and then four more in New Orleans. And New Orleans is following Mobile here this week.

But there's an old saying which, in effect, announces to the world in general that a little dog, in his own back yard, can beat a big one. As if that's true, there's still hope for the Crackers. And it is a help to be playing on your own stomping grounds.

Then, it's very probable that the squad will be bolstered today by the addition of Johnny Jones at shortstop, and Jim Poole at first base. Both have been sick for "flu." Jones for well over a week, while Poole has been out for the past four days or so. Jones worked out Saturday at the drill and seems to be in good shape again.

His last game was the opening day affair here with Chattanooga, which game Atlanta managed to win. Jones, in that game, looked like the proverbial home dollar, and he will be a mainstay in the Cracker infield, there's no doubt of that. Poole is a steady, capable fielder at first.

While Poole was sick Paul Strand was called in from right field to hold down the portal pillow.

Crackers Jinxed.

Something seems to be jinxing the Crackers in that they can always make just about one less run than the opponents make. It looks funny and is. But try to explain it.

Crackers this afternoon—the game will start at 3 o'clock—the correspondence has no idea, although the Crackers' skipper will send in Walter Leverage, new left-hander from Buffalo. Leverage worked against New Orleans last Friday for one inning and was hit by a home run.

So the boys are back now for a long stay. It's time to begin winning games if they ever expect to win any and the home field is a good place to start. But who, at this time, would have thought Atlanta would come back home with nine straight defeats?

Fort Mac Polo Called Off

Owing to the rains of Saturday and condition of the playing field the scheduled polo contest for Sunday afternoon between the Fort McPherson and Governor's Horse Guard teams at Fort McPherson was called off.

The second time in as many weeks that rain has taken a hand in the proceedings and Atlanta is yet to witness its first polo game of the year. The game will probably be played next Sunday afternoon at Fort McPherson.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF COTTON MARKET

New Orleans, La., April 22.—(P)—The cotton market has experienced intermittent periods of activity and dullness during the past week with price fluctuations fairly wide and with no well defined trend in either direction. The dominating influence has been the weather, the market strengthening early in the week on rains in the belt followed by unseasonably cold weather injurious to cotton already planted and preventing the active prosecution of planting because the cold soil would prevent seed from germinating.

During the middle of the week a return of fair and warmer weather caused some reaction in prices on the theory that a spell of good weather would enable the crop to regain lost ground but a return of bad weather late in the week pointed prices upward again. As the week closes rains have been quite general over the belt and the forecast for continued showers followed by colder weather over the week-end.

The widest fluctuations of the week occurred on Tuesday when the second boll weevil report of the season was issued. In anticipation of the report prices bulged nearly $2.50 a bale or 40 points on May, but when the report proved disappointing owing to a smaller apparent emergence of the weevils than expected most of the gain was lost and for a time prices showed a tendency to ease off owing to a temporary return of better weather.

The market rallied again Friday on recurrence of rains in the belt and on a bullish construction of a pink boll worm report, and prices advanced to within 4 points of Tuesday's high, but did not retain all of the gain, despite a steady undertone. The close-ing prices were practically the same as a week ago, showing a net gain of only 1 to 3 points.

One of the sustaining influences during the week was the appearance of many reports that heavy replanting would be necessary because of the failure of seed already planted to germinate owing to the low temperatures.

The following table shows the high, low and closing sales in the New Orleans futures market during the last week compared with a year ago:

Month	High	Low	Close	Year
May	19.94	19.85	19.90	19.85
June	19.70	19.31	19.60	19.35

TRADERS' HESITANCY
SLOWS BOND MARKET

New York, April 22.—(P)—The probable trend of the money market was the chief influence in the course of bond prices last week. A widespread belief that tighter credit was not far in the future caused considerable hesitancy among bond traders, and a certain amount of liquidation of mortgages of the higher grades.

The belief that an upward revision in credit rates was the way was borne out in part on Thursday when announcement was made that rediscount charges at the Chicago and Boston federal reserve banks had been advanced from 4 to 4 1/2 per cent. Although no change was effected in the New York rate, it was rather generally assumed that only a few days would pass before it was moved up from the 4 per cent level in force since last February.

The New York rate, in the past, has been among the last to be moved, and there is no reason to believe that an exception will be made in the present instance. However, it is not unlikely that the 11 interior banks will be quick to fall in line with Chicago

and Boston, and that the New York rediscount rate may be advanced to 4 1/2 per cent within a week or two. Bankers generally are disposed to believe that money in New York is too cheap to warrant an advance in rediscount rates, but the raising of the level in other centers would draw much currency from this market and have the effect of forcing an upward revision.

The movement of gold to other countries

continued in moderately large volume. About $30,000,000 was exported during the week, the largest part of the shipments, or about $23,000,000, being taken by France from its earmarked store, to build up reserves for the proposed stabilization of the franc on a gold basis.

Listing of the outstanding United Kingdom and Northern Ireland 4 per cent, bonds was regarded as one of the most important steps in the bond market in many weeks. About $2,000,000,000 of this issue is outstanding, making it the largest single issue of bonds ever admitted to trading on the New York Stock exchange. The action is expected to bring the two greatest financial centers in the world—New York and London—much closer together, and have a favorable effect on the stabilization of trade balances between the two countries.

Trading in the United Kingdom Securities on the first day of listing was heavy, more than $2,000,000 of them changing hands on a 30-day delivery basis.

New offerings during the week were in comparatively small volume, amounting to $105,000,000, against $115,000,000 in the preceding week, and $105,000,000 in the corresponding six days of last year. New issues on the road indicate a continued large demand for credit. Domestic municipal and public utility issues, and some large foreign loans are being negotiated, and are expected to reach the market within a reasonable short time.

The largest of the foreign bonds in the making probably is a $50,000,000 credit to the German Gold Discount bank. Large advances to other German enterprises, and to a few European governments are reported under negotiation. Rumors of a new loan to Poland within a few weeks, received scant credence here.

In the listed market semi-speculative issues commanded the most attention, particularly the new St. Paul mortgages and the Copper Convertible bonds. Some motion picture and oil company bonds were in good demand.

PARAMOUNT NEWS
LANDS 'BIG SCOOP'

BY ELMO HAMBY.

Considered one of the greatest scoops in the history of news reels, Paramount News today will show at the Howard theater, the first, only and exclusive motion picture of the Bremen's party of German fliers taken at Greenly Island, it was announced Sunday.

When the first print of the Paramount news reel reached New York, special views were "blown up" and rushed to Atlanta by the Associated Press. They were printed in Sunday's edition of The Constitution. The news reel itself arrived at the Howard theater late Sunday and will be shown at that theater tonight.

The Paramount reel contains the only motion picture taken of German fliers on Greenly Island, it was pointed out by S. R. Kent, head of the distribution department of Paramount pictures, in a telegram to Ernest Morrison, manager of the Howard.

"Regardless of the claims of any other news reel company, our pictures are the first and only motion pictures taken of the Bremen and its crew at Greenly Island," Mr. Kent said. "Other news reels have only a short picture of Fitzmaurice taken in Canada."

"This more than ordinary accomplishment again proves nothing is impossible for Paramount. From the cameraman who took these pictures, flew here 2,500 miles."

The pictures taken from the Paramount news reel by courtesy of the Associated Press, and printed Sunday in The Constitution showed the Bremen stranded on the icy rocks of the island and contained the views of Baron von Huenfeldt and Pilot Herman Koehl regarding their first newspaper account of the flight. They were shown with the family of the lighthouse keeper.

The current week may be had at the Erlanger box office and at Phillips & Crew Piano Co.

Two feminine stars, Miss Lee Morse, headliner on the Keith vaudeville circuit, and Columbia record star, and Bebe Daniels, star of Paramount film features, will divide the week. The current show of the musical comedy, "The Girl Who Came to Supper," will be seen on the screen in "Feel My Pulse," a film story filled with laughs, drama and romance. This is one of Bebe Daniels' rollicking stories.

Capitol.

The "Farewell Week" of Jimmie Hodges, the most popular comedian ever to play in Atlanta, will be begun at the Capitol theater today with indications pointing to capacity audiences throughout the week. The current show of the musical comedy, "The Girl Who Came to Supper," will be seen on the screen in "Feel My Pulse," a film story filled with laughs, drama and romance. This is one of Bebe Daniels' rollicking stories.

Loew's Grand.

Loew's Grand theater will celebrate grand opera week with the presentation of a big fun bill headed by York and Laine, the musical comedy, "The Girl Who Came to Supper," will be seen on the screen in "Feel My Pulse," a film story filled with laughs, drama and romance. This is one of Bebe Daniels' rollicking stories.

Howard.

Brilliant, glamorous, pictorial, scintillant with romantic charm, vibrant with dramatic tension, dynamic in its emotional moments, poignant in its tragedy—that is "Ramona," the United Artists picture to be seen at the Howard theater starting today. The Public New York stage show for the week promises to be one of the most entertaining programs ever presented by Ray Teal and the Howard.

Metropolitan.

Taken from the story, "The Valley of the Giants," which is called one of the greatest Peter B. Kyne has ever written, the picture which stars Milton Sills and Doris Kenyon, is an epic of the lumber country, and characteristic of the battles that have been fought for lumber and right of way rights in the northland. "Ramona" is a picture of the lumber country, and characteristic of the battles that have been fought for lumber and right of way rights in the northland.

Alamo No. 2.

"The Gorilla," the weird, mysterious and hilarious mystery comedy, written by Ralph Spence as a stage play, has reached the movies at last after being a sensation on Broadway. "The Gorilla" will appear at the Alamo Theater No. 2 today.

DeKalb.

It is true that the public only gets an occasional Fairbanks picture—lower, when DeKalb's Fairbanks completes one it rings the bell for excellent entertainment. Today he will appear in "The Three Musketeers," a picture of the three Musketeers, at the DeKalb theater.

West End.

With Jeanne Engels, famous star of the phenomenal stage success, "Rain," appearing as a fascinating lady of mystery and charm, society editor of a great daily, mistress of its powerful owner and beloved of a young reporter, and John Gilbert, at the reporter, who goes through a soul-searching experience, playing in one of his most tensely appealing roles of his career, "Man, Woman and Sin," is to be the current attraction at the West End theater today and Tuesday.

Palace.

The great Army-Navy football game, with its thrilling finish, spectacular maneuvers and dress parades of the cadets, and scenes on the Hudson, filmed on the famous "De Witt Clinton," among the interesting details of the big production, "West Point," which comes to the Palace theater out in Inman park for a two days run starting Monday. William Haines plays a West Point cadet in a romance of love at the United States Military academy, with Joan Crawford playing in the role of heroine.

Tenth Street.

Today and Tuesday, Ruth Taylor, the screen's most beautiful blonde, will appear in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," at the Tenth Street theater, in the role of the fascinating blonde whose charm vanquish them from America to Paris. She will convince you that the title is true. Ford Sterling supports Miss Taylor and their trips to Paris are entertainment you cannot afford to miss.

STEPHEN FRENCH DIES IN LOUISVILLE, KY.

News of the death of Stephen French in Louisville, Ky., on April 11, reached Atlanta Sunday and in view of the fact that he made his home in this city for many years and was highly regarded in the fire insurance field, the announcement of his death will be deeply regretted.

Mr. French was born in Virginia but lived in Texas when quite a young man, coming to Atlanta as an adjuster, being a pioneer in that field and considered unsurpassed in his line. Some years ago a fall, suffered while making inspection, developed a condition of invalidism and confined him to a state of helplessness for 10 years.

At the time of his death he was 71 years of age. Highly educated, widely read and appreciative of the beautiful in art and life, he was a thinker and philosopher. His bedside was a favorite gathering place for friends and his wit, observation and love of life never weakened and at the end he never uttered a complaint.

ELEVEN VICTIMS OF DENVER BLAST ARE RECOVERING

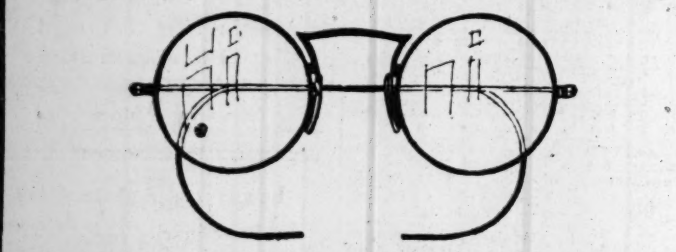

Denver, Colo., April 22.—(AP)—The eleven injured victims of the blast and fire at Alexander Industries plant at Englewood Friday, in which nine employees were killed, were reported out of danger today.

Investigations into the tragedy, which resulted in the death or injury of all of the twenty-six employees in the paint shop of the plant, where the fire occurred, were suspended over the week-end, after testimony had been given at the coroner's inquest Saturday which led to the report that criminal charges might be laid against the company's officials.

The inquest will be continued tomorrow, at which time testimony concerning the alleged relations between the Englewood city council and the officials of the Alexander Industries with reference to fire prevention precautions will be resumed.

Chicago 'Loop' Theater Robbed By 3 Bandits

SECURE $7,500 AND ESCAPE

Chicago, April 22.—(AP)—Three masked men added a realistic touch to "movie holidays" today when they entered the United Artists theater, a large loop show house, and forced Frank Sentman, treasurer, to reveal the combination to the safe from which was taken the week-end receipts of $7,500.

Sentman's arms and legs were bound with wire shortly after he arrived at the theater office to check over the Saturday receipts.

He was given "thirty seconds to live" when he told the robbers he couldn't remember the combination.

Sentman recalled the combination after the threat and the bandits scooped the cash from the safe.

A cash stuffed in Sentman's mouth but he finally worked himself free to summon eight porters who were working in the theater.

Sentman was the only one in the theater, however, who saw the men enter, police were told.

Washington, April 22.—(AP)—The bitter and protracted controversy over the diversion of water from Lake Michigan at Chicago again will be before the supreme court tomorrow.

When last presented to the highest tribunal in oral argument today, the case contested the withdrawal and won. Now all Great Lakes states except Illinois are arranged in opposition to the diversion.

The case involves as well the diplomatic relations of this country and Canada.

The St. Lawrence deep waterway advocates, Great Lakes shipping and hydroelectric interests have aligned in challenging the diversion, while friends of the deep waterway from Chicago to the Gulf support it.

Charles Evans Hughes, former justice of the supreme court, and versed in international problems, says from the bench that the diversion is "impairing navigation, but is of the opinion that compensating works could be installed which would leave the effect of restoring and maintaining the old levels.

A great array of counsel will participate in the oral argument, and the contestants hope for a decision before the present term ends in June.

REQUESTS FOR CIVIL WAR GUNS TURNED DOWN IN CAPITAL

Washington, April 22.—(AP)—Requests from individuals and societies in the vicinity of Richmond, Va., for civil war guns for decorative purposes on the old battlefields and forts about the city cannot be complied with. Secretary Davis, of the war department, said today that he had no authority to make the gifts.

He said, however, that there are available for donation some obsolete cannon and cannon balls of the post-civil war period which are distributed in accordance with an act of congress.

C. W. WIMBERLEY DIES
AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Bainbridge, Ga., April 22.—Bainbridge was saddened today in the passing of C. W. Wimberley, clerk of the court since 1882, and in his seventy-first year.

Although Mr. Wimberley had been confined to his home for some weeks and it was generally known that he could not recover, news of his death was a shock and sorrow to his many friends throughout the town and county.

Surviving are his widow and daughter, Mrs. W. T. Roberts. Funeral services will be held from the home on Washington street, Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock, with Rev. J. E. Ward, of the First Presbyterian church, officiating. The pallbearers will be Judge W. V. Custer, Judge H. B. Spooner, Frank S. Jones, C. J. Perry, C. E. Hodges, C. C. Willis, and E. Pruton. Interment will be in Oak City cemetery.

AND A SALESMAN
CONFESS ROBBERY

Salem, Ill., April 22.—(United News).—The 18-year-old wife of a justice of the peace and a salesman for an insurance company have confessed they participated in the $8,200 daylight robbery of the Vernon, Ill., Farmers and Merchants' bank, Sheriff Harvey D. May, of Marion county, announced today.

With the arrest of Mrs. Bernice Hitchens, wife of Thomas J. Hitchens, justice of the peace of Belleville, Ill., and Newman A. Cox, salesman of the Western and Southern Insurance company, Sheriff May said, more than $1,000 of the bank loot has been recovered. Both are in jail here.

Three days after Mrs. Hitchens was married in June last year, she left her husband and rode to Detroit, Mich., in an automobile which he gave her as a wedding present. She was brought back to Illinois on a warrant charging removal of a mortgaged automobile. It was stolen from her in Detroit, she said.

Through the confessions of Mrs. Hitchens and Cox, May said, a woman cousin of a girl and another man were implicated in the Vernon robbery, which was committed on April 5 of this year. Search is in progress for the two accomplices, whereabouts of whom is unknown.

Washing, April 22.—(United News).—Charles A. Lindbergh took a look at a dripping sky and a glance at weather reports and decided against attempting to fly from Bolling field to Mitchell field, New York, today.

The aviator, here on "private business," dropped in on Major Davidson, commander of Bolling field, and the new mechanical half of "We" is parked.

"I'm going to Mitchell," he announced. A few minutes later, Lindbergh returned to the commandant's house.

"I'm not going to Mitchell," he corrected himself. Lindbergh is remaining in seclusion during his stay here. Saturday, he and a companion took a short walk and dropped into a cigar store to purchase a paper when he was recognized.

"It's Lindy," the whisper went around the store. Lindbergh heard the murmur, which now is a warning sign to him, and he and his companion by the arm and beat a hasty retreat.

If the weather clears tonight, it is possible, he may fly to New York Monday, it was said at Bolling field, although Lindbergh has made no announcement of his plans.

Washington, April 22.—(AP)—A new and enlarged board of directors of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, which said in a statement that the personnel represents an organization employing more than 2,000,000 men and assets of about $400,000,000.

Major Henry H. Curran heads the enlarged organization's president. The executive committee is composed of Pierre S. DuPont, chairman; Major Curran, Benedict Crowell, Charles H. Sabin, Fred DuPont, Grayson M. P. Murphy and Captain William H. Stayton.

The following are members of the board: Captain Stayton, chairman; Haley Fiske, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company; Samuel Harden Church, president of Carnegie Institute; General W. W. Atterbury, Frederick Roy Martin, general manager of Appleton and company; John R. W. Brown, president of the National Association of Manufacturers; Richard H. Dabney, professor of history at the University of Virginia; Stanley Field, of Marshall Field and company; and Nicholas E. Brady, of the National City Bank.

James Duncan and Matthew Woll, of the American Federation of Labor; Commodore Arthur Cueses; James A. Crowl, president of the Great Southern Lumber company; Edward S. Harkness, General George Barnett, of the United States army; Thomas N. McCarty, head of the Public Service Company of New Jersey.

Dr. Samuel W. Lambert, president of the New York Academy of Medicine, and Colonel Norris G. Osborn, editor of the New Haven Journal-Courier; R. L. Agassiz, president of the National Geographic Society; Frederick Winthrop Allen, of Lee Higginson and company; James S. Barron, of Norcross and company; Henry H. Head, of the United States Realty and Improvement company; Robert K. Cassatt, Philadelphia banker; Emory W. Clark, president of the National Bank of Detroit; Richard T. Crane, president of the Crane company; Herbert J. Clark, Philadelphia banker; Julian Coleman, Boston attorney; Frederick J. Fisher, of the Cadillac and Fisher Body companies of Detroit; Walter Gamwell, president of the United Fruit company; Thomas W. Phillips, Jr., of Butler, Pa.; Edgar Allen Poe, attorney of Baltimore; Colonel W. Scott Prosser, of Reno, Nev.; Charles S. Beckman, of Boston.

Samuel Rea, Pennsylvania capitalist; Charles H. Sabin, banker; Nonell Sayre, patent expert; Charles Scribner, head of the publishing house of Charles Scribner's Sons; Dr. J. N. Seelman, of Milwaukee, Wis.; Samuel Sloan, capitalist; William H. Stayton, of Baltimore; James W. Stoll, president of the Bank of Kentucky, of Lexington, Ky.; Alfred H. Swaine, financier; Captain William Bell Wait, attorney; George H. Walker, banker; William I. Walter, capitalist, and Dr. Linsly R. Williams, authority on tuberculosis, of New York.

More directors, representing every state in the union, will be added until the board of directors of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment numbers one hundred, the association's statement said. A special division for women's work will be established in the near future.

"As a cross-section of responsible American patriotism, the personnel of our board of directors speaks for itself," the statement said. "Believing that the prohibition amendment is a menace to the health and happiness of the American people, and that the increasing determination of the American people to cut out of our constitution the cancer that lodged there when the eighteenth amendment was enacted."

The association declared that it recognizes the necessity of a substitute for federal prohibition and would prevent the reappearance of the old unregulated saloon system.
